Harvesting of corn and soybeans accelerated this week after rains last week brought an end to the drought but not an end to the shortage of corn, and hay to feed livestock over the winter. Many farmers were filling silos with corn that would have been normally reserved for grain. According to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service, the corn crop is slow in maturing and harvest is also behind normal. On a better note, old crop carryover stocks of corn, wheat, and barley are above last year to help keep the supply in line with demand. But a lot of grain will be shipped to local markets from the Midwest. The late rains have slightly increased pasture conditions but many meadows are still not growing because of the stress placed on them by the summer drought. Fruit harvest around the state continues. Small apple size was reported. The quality of apples and grapes was generally good. The cool weather crops benefited from the recent precipitation, but frost brought an end to the growing season for most vegetable crops. In the photo, an Amish farmer on Pond Road north of Rt. 340, between Bird in Hand and Intercourse, harvests corn with teams pulling both the corn binder and the wagon to fill silo Tuesday afternoon. —Photo by Everett R. Being Empathetic With Consumers Critical To Poultry Industry's Public Affairs

ANDY ANDREWS

Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — These days, according to one media affairs specialist, people don't trust big business. They want environmental pollution controls but don't want to pay for them.

People — indicates M. Patricia Wood, senior account manager for William J. Green & Associates — are fickle. They want environmentally safe products — even say, on surveys, they'll pay for them — but when it comes time to pay, they don't.

For the agricultural industry to survive, and to curtail litigation, keep financially strapping regulations away, and to handle assaults in the media from an increasingly ignorant consumer population, producers must learn to be proactive, good communicators, and learn to be "empathetic with your audience," Wood told about two dozen poultry producers and agri-industry representatives Monday afternoon.

Wood, senior account manager for William J. Green & Associates, Hummelstown, works with the PennAg Industries Association, Ephrata, in helping member-producers with public affairs. Wood spoke Monday at the Penn State-sponsored Poultry Management and Health Seminar at Kreider's Restaurant in Manheim.

Wood pointed to a heavily criticized story appearing in a newspaper that made agriculture, in general, bad guys for consumers and the environment.

To counter sudden attacks for an increasingly vulnerable industry, according to Wood, it is important to have a strategy that is positive and pro-active. The strategy should paint a picture of farming that is progressive, active in the community, and can respond to crisis situations and emotionally charged issues readily and with confidence. It's also important to cultivate relationships with the media that don't emphasize cold, big business — rather, family owned and operated farms where farming is the major income source.

Today's family-run "advanced farms" rely on advanced techniques and efficiencies in feeding, livestock health, pest control, nutrient management, and other areas.

"We don't think this industry has anything to apologize for," Wood said at the meeting. The important thing, she said, is to learn how to be better communicators and to be "empathetic with your audience."

Food Safety Biosensor Detects Pathogens

ATLANTA, Ga. — Recent incidences of contaminated meat in grocery stores and restaurants have heightened consumer concern. But people who eat meat may rest easier if a new bacterial sensing device to be field tested this fall delivers the accurate and speedy results, plus the low costs its developers predict.

The device, called a biosensor, was developed at the Georgia Tech Research Institute (GTRI). It can simultaneously identify species and determine concentrations of multiple pathogens — including the deadly E. coli 0157:H7 and Salmonella — in food products in less than two hours while in operation on a processing plant floor.

The most significant advantage of the biosensor is the time reduction in assessing the presence of contamination, said Nile Hartman, a biosensor developer and senior research engineer at GTRI.

Lab tests for E. coli and Salmonella in meat are required by federal regulators, but there are no standards for bacterial concentration. Most companies

Editor:

This letter is in response to your article regarding House Bill 1418, legislation that I sponsored to amend the Veterinary Practice Act of 1974.

Although I believe that an update of the 25-year-old law is appropriate, I am now convinced that the language of House Bill 1418 is too vague and all encompassing in its present form.

This expanded definition of the practice of veterinary medicine was designed and intended to protect consumers from being victimized by purveyors of vet-

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.
OCTOBER 13, 1999DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER
MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was generally no better fair. Seller offerings were fully sufficient although sizes varied from plant to plant. Live supplies were at least moderate; weights were light to heavy, mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 48 to 60 cents. Trade sentiment was cautiously steady. In the parts complex, all items were at least adequate for the seasonally light to fair and mostly selective buying interest.

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE

In Chicago and the Eastern region, prices were unchanged to higher on mediums. Elsewhere, prices were unchanged. The market tone ranged steady to fully steady on medium eggs, about steady on the larger sizes. Demand remained mixed, slow to fairly good, mostly moderate, with retail promotional activity usually generating the best pull. Supplies of the larger sizes were generally adequate to instances fully adequate, and

Wed Oct 13, 1999

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News
Daily National Grain Market Summary
Wheat bids lower, corn and soybean bids narrowly mixed. Wheat steady to 9 cents lower. Corn steady to 3 cents lower except So. Iowa 1 to 3 cents higher. Sorghum 1 cent lower. Soybeans mostly steady to 2 cents higher. Lack of fresh foreign orders this week added pressure to wheat bids. Large stock carry over continued to weigh on bids. Recent higher trends on the Board increased farmer selling and bids fell slightly lower. Additional pressure stemmed from active harvest. Another good export order for corn, limited declines. Soybean bids showed slight strength due to some fund buying on the Board and stronger meal demand. Dry conditions continue in Brazil. Harvest progress is going well for both corn and beans with good yields being reported. Corn harvest is well ahead of normal.

Feeder Cattle

Oklahoma City, OK

Wed Oct 13, 1999

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News

Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers and all calves steady. Feeder heifers 1.00-2.00 lower. Demand moderate at best as some feedlots are full or near capacity. Rain needed in most areas of the state to bring wheat pastures along. Early turnout prospects bleak at the moment. Calves over 5 wt dependent on feedlot demand which is decent given the low cost of gains and reasonable hedging prospects. Yearling quality plain to average. Quality of calves average to attractive. Feeders in slightly thin to medium flesh; calves in medium to fleshy condition with modest showing of thin calves. Weigh-ups average to full. Slaughter cows .50-1.00 lower. Slaughter bulls 1.00-2.00 lower. Packer demand moderate at best. Southern buyers showing very little interest as the culling process is in full swing in the south. Demand continues good for replacement and feeder cows. Total of 915 cows and bulls sold with 45 percent to packers. Receipts this week 11,700; last week 9,808; last year 9,047. Supply consisted of 47 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs; 45 percent calves under 600 lbs; 8 percent cows and bulls. Heifers comprised 38 percent of feeder and calf supply.

Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

Free Enterprise...

Two words that business people around the world take very seriously. Members of the Pennsylvania Livestock Auction
Association take free enterprise very seriously too. They realize that producers have a choice when it comes time to buy and sell livestock and they are dedicated to making sure that producers can take advantage of the free enterprise system in the best way possible... at the local auction market.

Pennsylvania livestock markets strive to provide you with the kind of service you deserve as a business person and a friend.
You can be assured that the honesty, integrity and solid marketing fundamentals found at your local market will ensure nothing less than the true market value for your livestock.

OCTOBER 18-24, 1999

FULL HUNTER'S MOON, OCT. 24.

INTERNATIONAL NIGHT

In celebration of United Nations Day, October 24, consider hosting an international potluck dinner at your school, community church, or neighborhood. Invite each family to bring an international dish of their choice, including a recipe card, if possible, or some notes on the ingredients. Enlist students to help in decorating the tables with various colored flags or collages to represent some of the countries that might be included. Potluck dinners are a natural (and delicious!) way to celebrate family traditions and differences in culture and custom.

To eat is human, to digest divine.

— Mark Twain

TIP OF THE WEEK

Chopsticks can add fun to a meal or lunchbox and may encourage the sampling of new finger foods.

MEXICAN ESQUITES (SAUTÉED CORN)

- 1/2 tablespoon oil (olive or canola)
- 1 onion, chopped
- 2 jalapeños, seeded and chopped
- 2 red bell peppers, seeded and sliced
- 4 cups corn kernels, drained or thawed
- 1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley
- salt and pepper, to taste high for 1 minute. Reduce heat again and add remainder of the ingredients, and sauté until corn is warmed.

Makes 4 servings.

Heat oil and sauté onion. Increase heat and add jalapeños, cooking on

The Building you want. The Lease you need.

Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: As little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms from five to fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules are specially designed to match your cash flow.

First: Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost.
Then: Call your Telmark representative for your financing.

OPINION

The Other Side Of The Story

In case you haven't noticed, one of agriculture's former top spokespersons has gone to the other side. Dr. David Brubaker from Lititz, who until last spring was an executive official of PennAg Industries Association, is now the director of the New York City-based Global Resource Action Center for the Environment's Factory Farm Project. In a recent interview, Brubaker is quoted with many disparaging remarks against the industry that has for a number of years put the food on his personal table.

Let it first be said, there is no such thing as a "factory farm." These are efficient food production units that help make America the best-fed nation in the world. And even the delicious ham and bacon they produce has recently been used in a special diet to help people loose weight.

As for pollution of streams near hog and poultry operations, the facts often don't match the accusations. In the article, Brubaker cites the recent floods in North Carolina last month from Hurricane Floyd as proof that manure from giant feedlots were responsible for contributing to "toxic, fish-killing plume in stream and ocean waters." What he didn't say was that every septic tank and municipal sewer in the area was also flooded out with worse "toxic, fish-killing plume" than anything the hogs produced. And he also didn't say that in normal times, the streams that flow by these efficient food production units in North Carolina are some of the cleanest streams in the nation.

In Pennsylvania, Wide Awake Farm, a 1,250 sow, farrow-to-feeder farm, near Clearville, in Bedford County, owned by Purina Mills, has just received the Chesapeake Bay environmental stewardship award. Their manure storage basin is lined in the bottom and frequently inspected. They use the best manure management technology to fertilize the crops on their farm rather than discharge nitrates into the streams like many municipal sewage plants do. To be so favorably recognized, you can be sure Wide Awake Farm is enhancing the environment with their operation and not degrading it.

The men and women in agriculture are in the forefront of insuring that we achieve the best balance of safe, efficient, food production and environmental protection. Members of PennAg Industries cooperate with federal and state governments to set standards and rules. They help develop new techniques for odor control, water conservation, improved feeds and best management practices to protect the environment.

As Walt Peechatka, the present executive vice president of PennAg Industries, wrote in a letter to this editor (Farm Forum this issue), "The article tried to create a picture of pathetically drugged animals wedged in giant factory barns. A tour of a local advanced farm would show that is wrong. The truth is that these livestock get better care and live in better conditions than many people do around our globe."

Most livestock live with better nutrition than most people, and have better health care than you can get from your local HMO.

To Recognize Environmental Improvement

According to a report from the Pacific Research Institute (PRI), there has been dramatic improvements in environmental quality since 1970. Contrary to public belief, toxic industrial releases are way down and overall United States (U.S.) environmental quality has improved dramatically since 1970. The 1999 Index is PRI's fourth annual checkup on the U.S. environment, which is based on government data collected over the past 20 years.

The report makes the following claims. First, ambient air pollution levels dropped significantly between 1976 and 1997.

Second, the releases of toxic chemicals have dropped at least one third since 1988. According to PRI, only two percent of the cancer cases are caused by manmade environmental factors (chemicals) while 75 percent of all cancers are caused by lifestyle factors such as diet, tobacco and alcohol.

Third, the discharges of toxic metals and organics from point sources have dropped 98 percent since 1993. Fourth, There has schools, which would render veterinarians less qualified to utilize those modalities than properly trained practitioners.

During the course of hearings recently conducted by the House Professional Licensure Committee, it became evident that there is a great deal of

been a 97 percent reduction of lead in the U.S. air. This was achieved primarily by introducing unleaded gasoline and eliminating lead compounds in paints and coatings. The report notes the average blood lead level in children ages one to five has dropped 76 percent since 1976 and 83 percent in children ages 6 to 19.

To Look At Land Conversion

According to a report issued by the Pacific Research Institute (PRI), a San Francisco based think tank, land conversion has slowed. They say almost 30 percent of the total land area in the United States is now covered by forests.

The net growth of trees has exceeded net harvest every year since 1950. More than two thirds of the United States deforestation had occurred between 1850 and 1910. In addition, wetlands to cropland conversion is decreasing dramatically. PRI says for every 60 acres of wetlands converted to cropland annually from 1954 to 1974 only three acres were converted from 1982 to 1992.

This is an excellent example people are responding to public policy and not having their results reported. Thus, the general public is operating under the impression nothing is being done. We need to be more active educating people about our successes and the changes we are making to our businesses to improve food safety and protecting the environment.

Feather Prof's Footnote:
"Coming together is a beginning.
Keeping together is progress.
Working together is a success."

YOUR DESERT YEARS

October 17, 1999

Background Scripture:
Deuteronomy 1:41 through 2:25
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 35

How curious! For much of the time they were in the Sinai wilderness, the people of Israel longed to return to Egypt. Once they had settled in the Promised Land, however, they forever looked back to the 'good old days' in the desert. True, it had been a time of great peril and hardship, but the desert years had also been a time when they felt they were very close the Lord.

A few years ago on a cruise, we anchored at Sharm El Sheikh, a resort on the Red Sea coast of the Sinai peninsula. From there we journeyed inland to St. Catherine's Monastery and Mt. Sinai, the traditional site where Moses received the Ten Commandments. As we drove through miles and miles of desert waste, I could envision the Hebrews plodding through this inhospitable land. It is easy to understand how, in this vast, stark, lonely wilderness people saw visions and experienced mysteries of the Lord. There is nothing here of manmade sights and sounds to distract the spirit.

So, the desert may have both negative and positive connotations. It is a hard place, granting few if any comforts. It is also a lonely place and we often feel totally miniaturized by its vastness. Living here is mostly a matter of survival, enduring physical, mental and even spiritual deprivation. It constantly tests us.

THE MIDST OF A CROWD

We can experience 'desert years' without actually going out into the physical desert. It is possible to experience it wherever we are. One can feel lost and lonely in the midst of a crowd. Like the 12 tribes of Israel we can wander aimlessly through life, not living so much as simply surviving.

The wilderness experience, whether literal or figurative, can have positive effects. I have heard more than a few couples tell me that the happiest years of their lives were those when they had to struggle to make ends meet. As uncomfortable as these times were, they gave these people a sense of God's presence and provision for their daily needs. God was more real to them then because they knew they were so dependent upon his providence. The Lord's Prayer petition, "Give us this day our daily bread," meant so much because they were living day to day on God's goodness. Later, prospering and living in abundance, they admitted, they were less likely to acknowledge God's presence.

Lonely as the desert may be, we are even more aware of God's presence. Moses says to the people of Israel, "Surely the Lord God has blessed you in all your undertakings; he knows your going through this great wilderness" (Deut. 2:7). In the wilderness it may seem God is more aware of us and we are more aware of him. Perhaps we 'see' him here because there are fewer 'things' to get in our way.

LEARNING TO TRUST

The desert tests our faith, just as Jesus was tempted there. When I arrived in Dallas, Texas in 1975 I was confronted with an opportunity to continue my ministry on a fee basis. For all of my working life I had earned and lived on a regular salary. The thought of cutting myself loose from a regular salary really made me fearful. After much wrestling with God and myself, I finally told God I would trust him to make ends meet.

That was almost a quarter of a century ago and I still marvel that somehow God always seems to provide enough for us. The '70s and the '80s were my 'desert years.' In them I learned to appreciate what Moses told the people of Israel in the desert: "These 40 years the Lord your God has been with you; you have lacked nothing" (Deut. 2:7).

The desert years are those in which we may learn to entrust ourselves in his hands. That is one of the hardest, yet most necessary things the Christian can learn. If there are still some desert years before you, don't fight them. They could turn out to be the best years of your life.

Core Augers and Flex Auger Systems Available

HEATING

Heaters.

The Purafire heater provides a consistent, cleanburning and fuel efficient source of warmth for all types of poultry and swine houses. Choose from two models; the C80M variable output (40,000-80,000 BTUH) and the C225 (225,000 BTUH). Each is LP or natural gas compatible and can be mounted inside or outside your confinement house. Electronic ignition.

Hog Hearth Systems

With AP's Hog Hearth System energy costs are reduced drastically. Compared to conventional heat lamps which use 250 watts our Hog Hearth System uses a maximum of 55 watts. Unlike all other heat mats or heat lamps used in the market today, our hog hearth system has 4 square feet of optimum, consistent heat area. With the modulating controller reducing wattage as the room temperature increases, you are once again saving energy costs.

Unique heating element is virtually indestructible

SCALES

WayPig

500 Animal Scale

The entire unit serves as the weighing area so that an animal leaning on the sides won't prevent an accurate reading

Litter Scale

An entire litter can be placed in the portable WayPig at one time. The new oversize scale gives a clear readout of the weight in pounds and kilograms. The compact design allows it to glide easily through aisles and around tight corners

UEBLER FEEDING MACHINES

SPECIAL DISCOUNTS MONTH OF OCTOBER

On Units In Stock - Call For A Free Demo

MODEL 810 30 bu

MODEL 812 43 bu

Uebler has been manufacturing feeding machines for over 30 years. From our extensive experience we know exactly what you want in a feeding machine.

SILAGE/HAYLAGE

Uebler silage carts feature a forage box unloading design which provides even-feeding of materials into the jumbo 12" auger discharge. Easily unloads all types of feed including the toughest silage. Uebler silage carts come in two sizes. Model 810 holds 30 bushels and Model 812 holds 43 bushels. Both riding models feature easy turning automotive-type steering and a comfortable, adjustable chair. A convenient foot pedal or hand control engages the feed mechanism and an easy acting hand control operates the hydrostatic transmission.

Exclusive center pivot makes Uebler the most maneuverable riders available today. And Uebler's simple design and durable materials are backed up with a two year guarantee.

FORAGE BOX UNLOADING DESIGN

No need for costly variable speed unloading mechanism. Spiral beater prevents bridging - provides even-feeding of materials into the auger discharge. Easily unloads all types of feed including the toughest haylage.

MANEUVERABLE

Center pivot is designed into each Uebler machine by positioning the pivot wheels as close to the center of the machine as possible. This minimizes the turning radius giving Uebler the best possible combination of maneuverability and carrying capacity available anywhere.

QUICK-START

The Pax QUICK-START™ pan feeding system grows chicks into FINISHED broilers efficiently.

Start chicks with the feeder resting on the floor and the feed pan entirely filled The Pax QUICK-START™ pan provides easy access to plenty of fresh feed - with no accumulation of stale feed in the drop tube - attracting even the smallest chicks to begin feeding right away

Feed Storage and Delivery Systems

ON THE FLOOR
With the feeder resting on the floor the feed level tube is raised to present feed in the entire pan without over filling like other typical floor feeders

WINCHED
When the feeder is winched the feed level tube automatically lowers to your pre selected finishing level

Flexible Auger for Low Volume, Standard
Volume, High Volume
as well as High Moisture (up to 25%)
and pellet applications

Top Ten Reasons Why
Farmers Don't Manage Risk

- 10 - There is no free hat
9. I'm waiting for my neighbor to try it
8. The media created El Nino
- 7 Crop failures build character
- 6 It's more fun to keep my lender guessing about my ability to repay
5. I probably deserve a total crop failure
- 4 Sleeping too soundly would make my spouse wonder

3. The IRS would take the profits anyway
 2. My children would just fight over the estate
 1. Life would be dull without daily doses of fear
- In a recent study, 5% of farmers are using available tools to manage the production risk, credit risk and financial risk of their business. Why haven't the remaining 95% signed on? At least 4 real reasons come to mind.

- 1) Resistance to change

Learning about risk management seems risky itself. It involves changing the way you approach decisions and the way you do business. If you believe that change is not necessary, risk management education is not well received.

2) Too many decisions, not enough time

The variety of risk management tools can be a curse. Good tools used incorrectly or poorly understood can ruin an operation. Ongoing risk management education is necessary to stay competitive.

3) Old fears die hard

Farmers distrust the futures market, crop insurance and the federal government. Both industries are working with educators and farm organizations to increase understanding.

4) The check is in the mail

The government has been willing to absorb the production and price risk in the past through making disaster payments and support prices. For the most part, this has been replaced with federally subsidized crop insurance.

Private sector alternatives to the federal programs of the past must be understood. In today's market, the reward for adopting risk management strategies will be a chance at profitability and survival.

Pennsylvania State Grange Heads To Allentown For Annual Session

HARRISBURG — Securing drought relief for farmers, passage of the Northeast Dairy Compact at the federal level, inheritance tax reform, educational initiatives and establishing standards for cellular telephone owners are a few of the 70 topics to be discussed at the upcoming Pennsylvania State Grange Session, Oct. 23-26 in Allentown, Lehigh County. The 1999 session marks the 127th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

About 800 Grange members from around Pennsylvania will gather at the Allentown Hilton for the state convention to examine resolutions and potentially develop new policies as voted on by the delegate body. The session is being hosted by the Grange members of the eight Granges in Lehigh and Northampton counties.

"The Grange is a grass-roots organization which gets its policies from the local Granges in the form of resolutions," said Pennsylvania State Grange Master (president) Bill Steel. "Over the years the Grange has successfully lobbied for such issues as rural mail delivery, establishment of rural electric cooperatives and fairer prices for farmers. All these policies started at a local Grange and were then passed to the state level."

Highlights of the five-day convention include the State of Agriculture Address from Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes Jr., which is tentatively scheduled for Monday afternoon, distribution of community service projects in the local area and presentation of various departmental awards.

Award to be presented Monday evening at the All-Granger banquet include: Community Service awards to the top three Subordinate (local) and Pomona (county) Granges, Past Officer awards and the Granger of the Year award, the highest honor bestowed upon an individual for service to the organization.

Youth members, ages 15-35, and Junior Grangers (5-14) will take center stage Sunday as they compete in the Public Speaking and Sign-A-Song competitions beginning at 1:30 p.m. in Rooms B and C of the Allentown Hilton. The Sign-A-Song contest showcases the ability to utilize sign language to popular music and help raise awareness of deaf and hard of hearing issues. Deaf and hard of hearing awareness has been the State's Grange community service project since the mid 1960s.

"The competition in these events is tough and the talent is outstanding as Youth members battle for statewide honors and the right to perform against their peers from around the country at the National Grange convention," Steel said. "These youths demonstrate skills and abilities that they have learned as Grange members. Many are leaders within their own Granges and will one day be leaders of our nation."

The Pennsylvania State Grange is a family fraternity representing 30,000 rural Pennsylvanians. The organization offers its members benefits such as insurance, a credit union, lobbying efforts, community service, and social activities. The Grange is making Pennsylvania a better place to live through its legislative endeavors, community service work and providing member services.

ODOR RESEARCH FIELD DAY

October 28, 1999

David Groff Farm 10:30 am - 1:30 pm

Lewisburg, PA

- Odor research field day to display new biofilter technology for reducing odor from swine operations.
- Sponsored by Pennsylvania State University, The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, The Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council, and Hostetter Management.
- Researchers Ken Kephart and Robert Mikesell will be available through the day to answer questions.
- Brief presentation at 12:30 pm.
- Free Lunch.

Directions to the Farm:

From the North - Take 15 South from Route 80 toward Lewisburg. Turn right on Colonel John Kelly Road (next to Bierly's Meat Market). Proceed about 2 miles, turn right onto Churches Road, bear right at the Y. The two finishing barns will be on your left.

From the South - Take 15 North from the Harrisburg area. Cross Routes 45 and 192, pass the Country Cupboard, and turn left on Colonel John Kelly Road (next to Bierly's Meat Market). Proceed about 2 miles, turn right onto Churches Road, bear right at the Y. The two finishing barns will be on your left.

Food Safety Biosensor Detects Pathogens In Foods

perform laboratory tests, but they are costly and slow – sometimes not even yielding results for 48 to 72 hours. That delay requires that food products remain stored in warehouses for longer periods.

The biosensor will help in overall quality control in food processing plants, said collaborator Dr. Paul Edmonds, a professor of biology at Georgia Tech. It would minimize the chance of the final product being contaminated.

Georgia Tech researchers – in collaboration with Dr. Robert Brackett, a professor at the University of Georgia's Center for Food Safety and Quality Enhancement in Griffin – have been developing and testing the biosensor in their laboratories for about four years. Now they are ready for a field test expected to start in November at Gold Kist in Carrollton, Ga., just west of Atlanta.

Laboratory tests have proven the biosensor is extremely sensitive, meaning it can detect pathogens at minute levels of 500 cells per milliliter. Researchers believe they can improve that sensitivity to 100 cells per milliliter. Current laboratory methods only achieve sensitivity levels of 5,000 cells per milliliter, and they usually take from eight to 24 hours to yield results.

In addition, lab equipment costs $12,000 to $20,000 per instrument compared to an estimated $1,000 to $5,000 for a biosensor.

But before the biosensor gains market acceptance, it must prove its effectiveness in the upcoming field test. The first phase will last three to six months, and researchers will be comparing their biosensor test results with the company's lab findings.

One of the things we will be looking at is reproducibility of results, Hartman said. We will split a sample for testing with both of the technologies (the biosensor and lab tests). For every 1,000 tests we do, we will look for the variation between results of the two methods.

The biosensor can simultaneously detect 12 different pathogens, but researchers are concentrating on six bacterial species for now. They are Salmonella, E. coli 0157:H7, generic E. coli, Listeria monocytogenes, Campylobacter jejuni and Yersenia enterocolitica (found primarily in red meat). All of these pathogens are associated with stomach illness in humans. When detected, they are usually found in meat, but sometimes they occur in produce.

The biosensor operates with three primary components – integrated optics, immunoassay techniques and surface chemistry tests. It indirectly detects pathogens by combining immunoassays with a chemical sensing scheme. In the immunoassay, a series of antibodies selectively recognize target bacteria. The "capture" antibody is bound to the biosensor and captures the target bacteria as it passes nearby. A set of "reporter" antibodies, which bind with the same target pathogen, contain the enzyme urease, which breaks down urea that is then added and produces ammonia. The chemical sensor detects the ammonia, affecting the optical properties of the sensor and signaling changes in transmitted laser light. These changes reveal both the presence and concentration of specific pathogens in a sample at extremely minute levels.

If pathogens are found with the biosensor, then food processors can make decisions more quickly about applying treatments, such as antiseptics, Edmonds said. Or they might divert those products to cooking operations, which would kill the pathogens. And companies could modify their sanitation plans.

The field test is expected to demonstrate the biosensor's ability to improve food processors' operations, but it has some competition from other techniques. One that is under development is an electrochemical scheme that can reportedly detect pathogens at 100 to 1,000 cells per milliliter.

Another technique already in use is a DNA-based method called PCR. While extremely sensitive, it is very time-intensive in terms of sample preparation.

Meanwhile, the integrated optic interferometric sensor technology upon which the biosensor is based has already been patented by Hartman and the Georgia Tech Research Corporation. It is also the basis for a chemical contaminant sensing system called E-SMART. That system is also undergoing field tests. The chemical sensor was licensed commercially by the Atlanta-based company Photonic Sensor.

Commercialization for the biosensor is still some time away, researchers said. After the field test at Gold Kist is completed, researchers plan to return to their laboratories to further refine the technology. "We would like to extend the biosensor's capabilities to detect other pathogens, and we will need to optimize the chemistry for that," Hartman said. "Also, we would like to use the biosensor to address other food safety issues, such as those associated with insecticides, pesticides and growth hormones."

In addition to its application in the poultry and beef industries, Edmonds believes there is a need for the biosensor in the seafood industry. It contends with a variety of waterborne pathogens, particularly in shellfish. And the dairy industry could benefit from biosensor use, as well, he said. An outbreak of Listeria was found in Brie cheese several years ago.

While biosensor development continues, the state-funded Agricultural Technology Research Program at Georgia Tech is sponsoring the project.

New Members Welcome In 4-H

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Interested Lancaster County youth are welcome to attend the next meeting of the Red Rose 4-H Beef Club at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 13, at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

This special meeting for new members will include official sign-up, explanation of project goals, introduction of leaders, and a program on "Beef Breed Identification."

The club holds seven meetings each year, a round-up in August, and a recognition banquet. Members of the club will have the opportunity to participate in livestock and meats judging programs, community fair beef shows, and the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

For additional information, contact Chet Hughes, Penn State Cooperative Extension livestock agent, at (717) 394-6851.

Bankert, Jones Take York Fair Supreme Swine

JOYCE BUYP

York Co. Correspondent

YORK CO. — The Roger Bankert family of Hanover snagged two of the three supreme swine titles at the York Fair recently, taking home banners for their homebred Duroc boar and female winners.

Claiming the third banner for supreme open class market hog was 4-H exhibitor Lindsay Jones, East Berlin. Jones, 14, took the coveted market hog top honor with a crossbred barrow.

While there is no York Fair supreme banner for the pairs contest, top honors in the two-pig category went to 4-H members and sisters Lane and Jessica Innerst, Red Lion.

Judge for the three-day swine competition was Dave Hosterman, Penn State swine herd manager, who offered plaudits to the outstanding representatives of each participating hog breed in contention for the supreme titles.

Question: Production levels of our herd have dropped over the last several years by 3000# RHA. We feel that our management and ability to provide top feed to our cows is at an all time high. How do we determine what is wrong?

Many factors concerning total herd production can cause RHA averages to drop. Some that come to mind are reproduction problems, high SCC, poor peak performance, and metabolic health problems, just to name a few. Thinking about all of the possibilities can make your head spin. To avoid the confusion surrounding problem solving, the best way to begin is to segment the herd into smaller groups and study production trends there. Looking at management groups such as dry, prefresh, or production groups can help. Another segment to look at is lactation number or age. This method can help answer the current question.

When I looked at the herd's research over the last several years I noticed that the drop in first lactation was nearly as great as the overall change in herd production. This alone does not indicate where to begin looking for production problems in the young cows. The second factor that caused me to zero in on this group was the growing percentage of first lactation cows in the herd. Part of this was planned as the herd increased in numbers beginning three years ago. Since then numbers have remained the same but the percentage of first lactation cows continues to climb to the current level of over 40%. What is causing this?

My focus was now on the two-year-old group. It was noted that age at first calving had dropped to 24 months from 27 months. This should have made more heifers available to sell but in fact, this herd needed to buy some replacements. I then proceeded to look at the current two-year-olds in the milking herd. The size difference between the young cows and their older counterparts was quite large. Heifers need to calve weighing about 1300# and should stand 55 inches tall to make it in modern dairy management. I did not measure but was sure that these young cows did not meet these criteria.

Next, I went to see the close up heifers. These heifers were all running with a single dry cow group and all had eartags that indicated their birth dates. Here I saw heifers that were healthy looking, shiny, and all the same size. The problem was that they were different in age. The youngest were recently bred and 16 months old. The oldest were 23 months old and ready to calve soon. Body condition scores were all the same but I was surprised by the uniformity in stature. Normally these heifers would be 5 inches different in height considering their difference in age. I was sure that they were not all the suggested 55 inches we need at freshening. On the contrary, I believe most of them to be about the same stature that they were at breeding. This was confirmed by walking among the breeding age heifers that are housed in a heifer barn. There appeared to be little difference in size from these animals to the oldest heifers running with the dry cows. How did this happen?

Sometimes, changes creep into our management practices without us being aware of them. This is what has happened to the heifers on this farm. Years back, when 70 cows were milked, heifer facilities were built to accommodate the 50 to 70 replacements raised at any given time.

Numbers grew in the milking herd to the point where heifers had to be moved out of the heifer facility to accommodate a rising population of young cattle. The only place to gain this room was with the dry cows. Without facilities to handle this group of heifers properly, they were treated just as if they were dry cows. After all, they were pregnant and not producing milk. Dry cow diets are typically low in protein and energy levels are such that the animals do not gain or lose weight. This is not what we need for heifers. During the last 7 to 9 months before calving, heifers need to gain 400 pounds and grow an additional 5 inches. Compounding the problem is the fact that we make cows out of them early and then expect them to compete with the mature cows once they are part of the milking string. Sometimes this can be compensated for during the last half of the first lactation and even into the next. It may also be why the first lactation group is producing less milk than they did several years ago. Often, because of the pressure to generate profits, this does not happen and we have problems to deal with as herd production decreases and we cannot understand why.

The need for evaluation of our total management practices grows as we proceed into the next century. Failure to measure the result of our management changes can lead to problems. Growth, as with any change needs to be measured. This is a good example of how one goal can trigger other problems that keep us from reaching that goal. Milking more cows caused a setback in heifer development due to a lack of heifer facilities. Sometimes we need to establish ways to measure management changes before they lead to problems. Records are the key.

MADISON, Wis. — A four-teen-year-old Canadian cow exhibited by Stanhope-Wedgwood and Ray Brown of Victoria, British Columbia, Canada was selected as the 1999 World Dairy Expo Supreme Champion during closing ceremonies at the 33rd annual show in Madison, Wisconsin. Marshfield Elevation Tony sired the animal, Rainyridge Tony Beauty, and her dam is Despics Tempo Diane. The champion produced a 305-day record of 16,717 lbs. of milk, 545 lbs. of fat and 539 lbs. of protein.

The reserve supreme champion honors went to the champion from the Central National Jersey Show. P H Jewel is a five-year-old cow owned by Robert Yoeman of Sandy Dale Farms, Ltd. She has a 245-day production record of 15,032-lbs. of milk, 584 lbs. of fat and 580 lbs. of protein. Patrick Son of Heather sired Jewel and her dam is D-Ji Fillpail Joanne.

Holstein Named Junior Show Supreme

A Holstein cow named Windsor-Manor Encore Taz was selected the supreme champion of the junior show during World Dairy Expo. Amy Elizabeth lager of Fulton, Maryland exhibited her. Marcrest Encore sired the champion.

The reserve supreme champion of the junior show was GF Juno Barbara, exhibited by Joshua and Mary Godon of Goshen, Indiana. The animal was representing the Central National Jersey Show.

The champions receive awards sponsored by Pfizer U.S.

Animal Health Division, Bou-Matic, IN-DE Custom Embroidery, National Dairy Board and World Dairy Expo. More than 2,000 animals were on grounds for the seven dairy cattle breed shows and five breed sales during World Dairy Expo at the Dane County Expo Center in Madison, Wisconsin.

Building Profitable Dairy Is Theme Of Maryland Meeting

HAGERSTOWN, Md. — Dairy producers, processors, and suppliers will gather here on Thursday, Dec. 2, to discuss critical issues affecting Maryland's $1 billion dairy industry. The program will be part of the Maryland Dairy Industry Association's (MDIA) 1999 Annual Meeting, slated for the Four Points Hotel on U.S. Route 40 East.

"Our theme will be how to build and operate the most profitable dairy operation for Maryland producers," says MDIA's president Myron Wilhide of Detour, Maryland. "It will be a full day of good practical information from selecting the best seeds and crops, to planning the most nutritious dairy ration, to assuring good herd health through pre-planned preventative care. Our goal is to unveil a total dairy management plan that all Maryland producers can use."

Resource persons scheduled for the MDIA program include noted Canadian dairy nutritionist Ian Shives, expert dairy management specialist Brad Hilty, and regional seed and soil specialist Kurt Ruppel. A herd health veterinarian is also on the program. The group of experts will form a panel at the end of the program to release their dairy management plan. Leading suppliers to the dairy industry will be on hand to present new technology to industry participants.

Registration for the MDIA Annual Meeting opens at 8:30 a.m. on Dec. 2, with meeting and program events scheduled from 10 a.m. through 4 p.m. Luncheon will be served. All events take place at Hagerstown's Four Points Hotel.

Details of the program are available from MDIA headquarters at MDIA, Suite 1100, 1629 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006. Telephone: (202) 293-0476.

The Industry's A-Buzz Over Our New "B"

Kubota's new powerful, yet compact B2710HSD (27HP) heavy-duty tractor has people talking. It has the greatest loader lift capacity in its class. It's built with a powerful hydrostatic transmission. And it's powered by Kubota's popular E-TVCS, 4-cylinder diesel engine for "clean power."

Standard features include 4WD to maximize pulling force, a 3-point hitch, power steering and live mid and rear PTO. A variety of compatible implements increase versatility and efficiency to handle a multitude of jobs.

See your Kubota dealer and see what all the "buzz" is about!

New Multicounty Agent To Focus On Grape Production

Precise Variety, Exact Location Components To Successful Pa. Wineries

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff
LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)
— New Penn State Wine Grape Agent Mark Chien wants to see more grapes being grown in Pennsylvania.

But first, potential growers have to get beyond the "myths" about grape growing for the table or the winery.

"There's a sort of 'romantic' notion about vineyards and wineries that they attract an inordinate amount of attention," said Chien. "Not only from politicians — in terms of legislation and funding — but also from consumers, tourists, and others."

Chien knows that there are many areas that can be found in the southeast part of the state suitable for growing. But traditionally, at least from his experience as vineyard manager in Oregon, growers have been successful in other fields first, as doctors, lawyers, and even movie stars.

But the southeast can be particularly successful, according to Chien, the new wine grape agent appointed by Penn State Cooperative Extension in the past week to serve Lancaster and the southeast and southcentral counties. It's home to one of the largest tourism industries in the country — perhaps the largest on the East Coast. And "wine districts" become destination areas for the metropolitan tourists — they spend money and go to tasting rooms and "usually buy quite a bit of wine," he said.

When Chien began working in Oregon in 1985, there were about 3,000 acres in vineyards. He worked in the Willamette Valley on the west side of the state, in Salem, Ore. There were no cooperative extension agents serving the winemaking or grape growing industries. When he left a few weeks ago, the industry grew to encompass 10,000 acres in a rich, fertile region settled by farmers who traveled the Oregon Trail.

Southeast Pennsylvania is home to only about 1,000 acres of grapes for winemaking. In the state, about 11,000 acres are dedicated to processing grapes, mostly in Erie County.

But the Southeast Growers Association (SEGA) recognized the marketability of the area to vineyards and called on Penn State.

Penn State quickly responded and hired Chien to serve what is perceived as a potentially huge growth industry.

In Salem, Ore., Chien managed a 220-acre farm with 100 acres devoted to wine grapes. The former walnut farm also was home to Christmas trees and timber products.

For some time, Chien studied viticulture at the University of California at Davis, in the graduate horticulture program. But an opportunity opened up on a farm in the northern fork of Long Island, N.Y., Pindar Vineyards (named after a Greek poet), a 220-acre farm that also housed a winery.

Pindar, owned by a Dr. Dan Damianos, is a family-owned and operated farm, the most successful, according to Chien, on the island. They grow 16 different varieties of grapes.

To entice potential grape growers in southeast Pennsylvania, Chien noted that there is potential.

"The reason I'm here is because the Pennsylvania wine industry really wants to grow top-quality grapes," he said.

The varieties that can be grown are the French hybrids and Vinifera varieties that are suitable to environmental and soil conditions on the East Coast.

"The trouble with vineyards," said Chien, "is that they don't easily translate to what's usually perceived as good agricultural farmland. The best vineyards tend to be up in the hills, basically on ground that nobody else will farm. The soils that grapes grow in are generally considered inhospitable to most other crops, certainly field crops and most row crops."

What growers should look for are locations that are on a hillside, with south facing positions, shallow soil, in a pocket to protect the vines from severe winter temperatures. The soil should be porous, well drained, and could even be rocky with low clay content. Sandy soils can work well for grape production.

Most growers don't know exactly what kind of varieties on what types of rootstocks will do, and what kinds of wines can be made, until the vines mature — which usually take about 10 years.

And growers need to rethink the mentality that high production is essential, because it's not.

"Grapes are very unique in that you have to find a balance between production and the quality of the fruit," said Chien. "There is a kind of inverse relationship. The lower your production, the higher quality the fruit will be. You are not trying to maximize production — it's a different mentality from what a lot of farmers have."

Said Chien, "I wouldn't say you could just take a tobacco field and put wine grapes in, even though it's considered a high-value cash crop, and expect to grow really high-quality grapes. It's a little bit more complicated than that, as far as site selection, which is somewhat of a problem."

But Chien welcomes farmers to consider growing grapes.

"I would wish that other farmers would take an interest in planting grapes," he said, "because Pennsylvania needs more grape acreage. There are hundreds of excellent sites out there to grow grapes and make high-quality wine. It's out there just about everywhere if you have climate boundaries that you can operate within. The sites are out there — you just have to find them."

"The potential is huge for this young industry."

In fact, it took Oregon 25 years to get an extension agent for the number of acres they had. Pennsylvania has one with even less acreage, but with more opportunity.

Here, said Chien, "you have these huge metropolitan areas with fairly sophisticated people who like wine and who have quite a bit of disposable income. And if they can be persuaded that Pennsylvania wine is of relative high quality and is worth visiting the wineries and things like that, then the sky's the limit."

The challenge is coming up with climate and pest control strategies to help grape crops — normally suited for cooler, less humid conditions — adopt to the hot, humid, and winter variable conditions in the state.

When Chien began producing grapes in Oregon, the goal was to harvest about 4-5 tons per acre. But good quality red wine requires grapes at 2 to 2½ tons per acre. The wineries can afford to pay $2,000 per ton for grapes — because they charge consumers $25-$35 for a bottle of wine.

Wineries in the county, particularly Nissley Vineyards, Bainbridge, reflect the European beliefs. The average European winemaker is "appalled" at the American system of grape growers separate from winemakers. For most growers in Europe, the grape grower is the winemaker.

For some, the dry, sunny conditions have produced a good crop this year — though drought conditions can be deadly to every crop, including grapes. And hurricanes can also devastate crops.

Grape vines prefer weather conditions to be 77 degrees Fahrenheit with low humidity. If too hot, growing shuts down. The heat, if stressful for people, is bad for plants too, noted Chien.

But those interested in growing grapes, in Chien's experience, come from diverse backgrounds. Frequently they have an "overtly romanticized notion of what growing grapes and making wine are all about."

It's important to get the facts straight before starting a grape-growing enterprise. Growers who are interested in finding out more can contact Chien at the Lancaster extension office, (717) 394-6851.

Being Empathetic With Consumers Critical To Poultry Industry's Public Affairs

Understanding how consumers think is important. Wood said people simply don't trust big business. Consumers are worried about food safety. Any kind of risk — even one in five billion for some potential poultry foodborne illnesses — is "too high," she said.

Consumers are fickle. In surveys, they indicate their willingness to pay for environmentally friendly products. But when it comes time to pay, they turn their backs.

Wood provided an example of the sports utility vehicle (SUV) craze in the nation. SUVs, Wood said, "pollute three to five times what the personal passenger car does." But SUVs are what the public wants.

People believe the government, however, won't let the pollution become that bad.

"The public wants to be isolated from the details of business," she said. When it comes to manufacturing food, "they want only to see it on their plate at dinnertime."

Messages to the public about the importance of agriculture are critical. They become part of an overall media relations strategy. "These messages are most important to everything we do," Wood said.

Agriculture needs to be considered in the following ways:

- We feed your family, we feed the nation, we feed the world.

- We balance the need for food and environmental preservation.

- The ag industry is tightly regulated, especially in Pennsylvania. The public wants more regulation, believe it or not. "Surveys show they want more, not less," Wood said.

- The modern, scientific ways of agriculture keeps prices low and provide safer food.

- Land stewardship remains a priority.

- The industry uses best practices, even though the public doesn't trust them.

- The industry understands the public's concerns and is willing to listen.

Wood noted that, unless agriculture tries to define itself, others will define it. Instead of referring to farms as CAFOs and AFOs and "factory farms," providing a more positive ID could be key. The company has adopted the name "advanced farms" for the high production, low-cost, heavily managed methods in wide-ranging use in the industry.

For those farms planning to expand, it is important to have a "community relations plan in place before stepping foot in the township building," she said. Having a public affairs person with a plan can be, Wood admitted, "cheaper than an attorney" later on.

To keep relations with the media and public from getting out of hand, Wood suggested the following:

- Talk to workers. Keep lines of communication open. As employees, you are company ambassadors.

- Read the papers and listen to the news. If you don't truly know what is being written or said about the company in the media, how can you respond timely and correctly?

- Adopt community "best practices" by contributing to events at town farm shows and fairs and being constantly active with and contributing to the community. Hold open houses at facilities. Show the public what it is you're doing.

"We can give you all the basic tools you need for good public affairs," she said. "Pay attention to media relations."

Also, place the right people in charge of those relations. And watch what you say, she warned.

Wood said, "Everything you say can come back to haunt you." It does no good, she said, putting up bulletin boards with a message that is decidedly pro-environmental and pro-agriculture and then making bad comments about agriculture or the community in the newspaper.

"Stay on the high road," Wood said. Agriculture doesn't need to take a beating by the consumer press.

For PennAg, William J Green & Associates has developed fact sheets that aid in public affair relations. Contact Wood at (717) 533-3423 or on the Internet at mpatriciaa@world.att.net

SRBC Lifts Drought Emergency

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Citing significant improvements, the Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC) lifted the drought emergency in the Maryland portions of the basin and in all Pennsylvania counties in the basin except Somerset County. The emergency will also be lifted in the State of New York upon action by that state to rescind or modify its emergency declaration.

For additional drought information, look under the Drought

Center on SRBC's web site, www.srb.net. The web site also includes convenient links to other agencies and organizations involved in water management.

The Susquehanna River Basin Commission is the governing agency established under a compact signed on Dec. 24, 1970 by the federal government and the states of New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland to protect and wisely manage the water resources of the Susquehanna River Basin. The basin covers a 27,510 square-mile drainage area in New York (25% of the basin), Pennsylvania (74%) and Maryland (1%). The Susquehanna River starts in Cooperstown, N.Y., and flows 444 miles to Havre de Grace, Md., where the river meets the Chesapeake Bay.

opposition to the bill on a number of issues, including the requirement of facility registration, the expanded scope of practice of veterinarians, alternate licensure of animal health technicians, and some other peripheral issues. Prior to the hearings, staff of the House Professional Licensure

Committee met with representatives of the Pennsylvania Veterinary Medical Association Practice Act Task Force to discuss House Bill 1418. It is now generally agreed that many provisions of the bill would have to be amended before the bill can be scheduled for committee deliberations. Before the bill is considered, every attempt will be made to find a fair solution to the concerns that have been raised.

During the critical review and amendment process, it is important that the staff and members of the House Professional Licensure Committee receive as much practical input as possible to ensure that concerns of all interested parties will be addressed. I encourage your readers to submit their written comments to me at the following address: Arthur D. Hershey, Pennsylvania House of Representatives, House Box 202020, Harrisburg, PA 17120-2020.

I will not be able to respond to their correspondence personally, but I will forward it to committee staff to ensure that every area of concern is considered.

Representatives

Editor:

I would like to clarify points raised in your recent article "If passed, State Bills Could Have Large, Long-Term Effects on Animal Boarders, Farriers," regarding NJ Senate Bill S-

Before I respond in detail, I assure you that veterinarians in NJ are among the strongest supporters of the equine industry in the state. It would be contrary to our interest to handicap this industry and the revisions in the practice act will not result in such actions.

Specifically, S-2048 does not change the scope of the practice of veterinary medicine in any substantive way. The proposed changes fall into three general categories: 1. Changes in definitions. 2. Changes in licensure requirements. 3. Changes in standards that apply to the practice of veterinary medicine.

You are correct in stating that persons may continue to administer health care to their own animals. However, your statement "those who keep others' 4-H project animals or operate kennels or boarding houses could be limited on what kind of animal care, without a veterinarian's approval they could give to animals they don't own," is misleading. This is not a change in NJ law. Currently NJ law prohibits non-licensed individuals from treating animals they don't own, unless under the responsible supervision of a licensed veterinarian.

The quote from Peggy Dillon that the bill would require anybody "to get a prescription to buy Vitamin C for a horse" is not accurate. Federal law distinguishes between drugs that are restricted to use or prescription only by a licensed veterinarian, and other medications, nutritional supplements and vitamins that may be purchased over-the-counter. S-2048 would not prohibit a livestock or pet owner from continuing to purchase non-FDA restricted products without a veterinarian's prescription. A consumer's access to over the counter or prescription drugs is not affected by this legislation. Consumers are not required to purchase pharmaceuticals directly from a veterinarian. Upon request by a client, a veterinarian must provide a prescription for pharmaceuticals he has prescribed.

Concerns expressed the affect of S-2048 on farriers are unfounded. Farriers would not be affected under the provisions of the bill. The relationship between veterinarians, and farriers, chiropractors or equine dentists is not changed by this legislation. Currently, a chiropractor or equine dentist can only treat a patient under the responsible supervision of a veterinarian. Veterinarians are the only health professionals qualified to diagnose, prescribe and perform surgery on animals. If they so choose, they can refer cases to other health professionals, but they retain responsibility for the case. S2048 does nothing to change this process.

The answer to the question posed "Could you apply gauze to an injury if the animal isn't yours?" is yes, provided it is an emergency situation or a person acting as a "good Samaritan," or is continuing a treatment regimen prescribed by a veterinarian. However, the answer to the question "Could you surgically remove a mole or a canker, is an unequivocal no, unless the individual doing the procedure owns the animal.

Upon adoption, the State Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners will be required to develop a set of minimum standard of veterinary practice. This will provide consumers assurances regarding standards of practice.

The proposed changes to the Veterinary Medical Practice Act will have a positive impact on the general health and well being of all animals, large and small, in New Jersey. Consumers will be assured that the veterinarians whose services they retain are qualified and aware of the latest veterinary medical advances. Developing standards of practice will encourage veterinarians to commit to practicing high quality medicine so consumers will receive a level of services that they demand and deserve.

Editor:

It is surprising that the Lancaster Sunday News—positioned in the heart of farm country and so much advanced farming technology and research—could imply that agriculture is poised to ruin the world through intensification (Oct. 10 front page story).

The opposite is true. And PennAg Industries Association and its members are in the forefront of ensuring that we achieve the best balance of safe, efficient food production and environmental protection.

Our members continue to help "write the book" on standards for siting and managing advanced farms. We cooperate with federal and state government on setting standards and rules. We help educate oversight agencies on advanced farming techniques. We are in the forefront of developing new techniques for everything from odor control to water conservation, improved feeds and best management practices.

And we firmly believe that the public deserves the truth.

The article points out "spiraling land costs" are a factor in encouraging farmers "to intensify." It neglected global competition, low commodity prices and the need for greater safety and efficiency as key factors in driving this inevitable trend. Modern practices make the difference between survival and failure of our farms.

The article tried to create a picture of pathetically drugged animals wedged in giant factory barns. A tour of local advanced farm would show that is wrong. The truth is that these livestock get better care and live in better conditions than many people do around our globe.

The article also implied there are not advanced farms in Lancaster—but there are many in the county and the rest of the state. No one notices them because they are not a problem.

There were other factual errors and illogical conclusions drawn in the article—not the least of which is that eating burgers and soda will lead to the destruction of the planet.

It is okay to explore the relationship of diet and health status. But it is irresponsible to use such scare tactics and unfairly tar the agribusiness to affect dietary change.

Misleading the public about modern farming has serious implications for the future of farming in Pennsylvania and the nation, consequences for our efforts to preserve farmland and produce food.

Our industry will not tolerate the dissemination of misinformation and will continue to be dedicated to working the public interest and for public education, so that the consumer can make informed choices.

Odor Research Field Day Oct. 28

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — An odor research field day is scheduled 10:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m., here Oct. 28 at the David Groff swine farm.

The purpose of the field day is to provide producers and the public with an opportunity to see biofilters that were installed on the swine grower finisher buildings at the Groff farm.

The study included a total of nine Pennsylvania farms on which one of three technologies were used to reduce odor emissions: dust filtration of exhausted air, floating straw covers for outside manure storages, and biofiltration of exhausted air. Effectiveness of the odor remediation measures were evaluated by direct odor measurement and by surveying neighbors who live near the swine operations

Based on the data collected thus far, biofilters such as the one at the Groff farm, show promise for being an effective odor-reducing method.

The research project is sponsored by the Pennsylvania State University, The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, and The Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council. Allied industry participants include Hostetter Management and Farmer Boy Ag Systems.

Researchers Ken Kephart and Robert Mikesell will be available throughout the day to answer questions. A brief presentation will be made at 12:30 p.m.

Directions to the farm:

• From the north — take Rt. 15 south from Rt. 80 toward Lewisburg. Turn right on Colonel John Kelly Road (next to Bierly's Meat Market). Proceed about two miles, turn right onto Churches Road, and bear right at the Y. The two swine barns will be on your left.

• From the south — Take Rt. 15 north from the Harrisburg area. Cross Routes 45 and 192, pass the Country Cupboard, and turn left on Colonel John Kelly Road (next to Bierly's Meat Market). Proceed about two miles, turn right onto Churches Road, bear right at the Y. The two swine barns will be on your left.

Penn State Dairymen's Club Meeting Set

Friday evening, October 29, 1999 will feature the annual dinner meeting of the Penn State Dairymen's Club at Celebration Hall, 2280 Commercial Blvd., State College. Arrival time is 6:00 - 6:30 P.M. with the dinner at 6:30 P.M. We're looking forward to alumni and friends having this opportunity to visit and share.

A milk bottle with unique artwork for Penn State Dairymen's Club is ready to raise funds for the Penn State Dairymen's Club Endowment Fund. The Endowment Fund supports activities of the Penn State Dairy Judging Team as well as the Poage Grant-in-Aid. We plan to have the bottles for sale at the annual meeting and at the Nittany Lion Fall Classic at a cost of $10.00 each. These would be wonderful gifts or a perfect item for your Penn State or dairy collection. There are only 300 ordered with the first logo on them. They will be sold on a "First come, first served" basis.

The Penn State Dairymen's Club is a non-profit support group whose mission is to enhance activities between the dairy industry and the Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences. New members are always welcome. Contact Beth Raney at 405 Ag Admin, University Park PA 16802, phone 814-863-2525.

Directions to Celebration Hall. From downtown State College, go north on Rt. 26. At the traffic light by College Gardens Nursery and Dunkin' Donuts, turn left on Gerald Street. Commercial Blvd is the first left turn. Celebration Hall is the last building on the street.

Scholarships Worth $8,850 Awarded To Jersey Youth

Ten Jersey juniors continuing their educations in agricultural science and leadership programs at institutions in Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Oklahoma, Virginia and Wisconsin will receive scholarships valued at $8,850 during the Junior Banquet on November 6, 1999, concluding All American Junior Day in Louisville, Ky.

Support for the scholarship program of the American Jersey Cattle Association comes from five different funds managed in perpetuity by the AJCA, plus three awards provided by individual sponsors.

Jack C. Nisbet Scholarships

The Jack C. Nisbet Memorial Scholarship Fund was created in 1965 to honor this former Executive Secretary of The American Jersey Cattle Association. All nominees for the National Jersey Youth Achievement Contest in the year announced are eligible for consideration.

Two Nisbet Scholarships of $800 each will be presented to Bryan Marcot, Greenville, Ill., and Kristin Barlass, Janesville, Wis. Marcot and Barlass were ranked first and second, respectively, in the 1998 achievement contest. Marcot is the son of Roger and Anita Marcot, and is a senior at the University of Illinois majoring in dairy management in the Animal Science program. Kristin is a sophomore at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, where she is majoring in dairy science. Barlass just completed her second summer internship with Midwest Dairy Business. She is the daughter of William and Marion Barlass.

V. L. Peterson Scholarships

The fund commemorating "Vic" Peterson, the dean of Jersey area representatives, was established in 1972. This year, Terri R. Billman, West Salem, Ohio, and Shelley Thompson, Chandler, Okla., were selected to receive the $750 awards.

Billman just completed a summer internship with the AJCA Communication Department this summer and is now attending Ohio State University Agriculture Technical Institute, where she is double majoring in dairy production management and business management. Terri is the daughter of James and Linda Billman. Thompson is the daughter of Robert and Janine Thompson, and is a senior in Agricultural Communications and Animal Science at Oklahoma State University. She has been a state 4-H dairy project winner, a delegate to the National 4-H Dairy conference, a member of OSU's dairy judging team and was the 1996 National Jersey Queen.

Paul Jackson Memorial Scholarship

This fund was created in 1965 to honor Paul Jackson's service to the Jersey breed spanned more than half a century. Jennifer Kunde, Manchester, Iowa, will receive a $650 Jackson scholarship for 1999-2000. She is the daughter of David and Donna Kunde, and currently a junior at Iowa State University. An active 4-H member and now the National Jersey Queen, Jennifer is also the secretary-treasurer of the Iowa Jersey Cattle Club.

Russell Memorial Scholarships

William A. Russell's lifetime of experience with and service to the Jersey breed is commemorated by the scholarships established in 1977. These awards are designated for students who have completed high school and are beginning their university studies.

Recipients of $600 awards are Tara Bohnert, East Moline, Ill., and Veronica L. Steer, Cottage Grove, Tenn.

Tara is the daughter of James and Wanda Bohnert and is a freshman at the University of Illinois, working towards a degree in Animal Sciences with a dairy emphasis. Veronica is a freshman attending Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, Va., graduating from Henry County High School with a 3.51 GPA. The daughter of Charles and Carol Steer started her Jersey herd with purchases from the South Carolina Pot of Gold Sale and the National Heifer Sale. Veronica has earned many awards for her showmanship, judging and records in 4-H and FFA.

Reuben Cowles Youth Award

The Reuben R. Cowles Youth Award supports a variety of educational experiences for individuals who are no older than 30 and who live in six southeastern states. The trustees of this fund selected Veronica Steer (see above) and Iris D. Peeler, Starr, S.C., to each receive a $700 cash award, presented at the Dixie Invitational Sale on September 6. Both are applying these awards to their expenses in attending Virginia Tech.

Peeler is the daughter of L. D. and Sherrie Peeler, and was the winner of the 1997 National Jersey Youth Achievement Contest. Iris received the Gold Emblem in Dairy Proficiency and the Silver Emblem for Diversified Livestock Proficiency from National FFA, and also has been the South Carolina 4-H dairy project winner.

Stanley K. Bansen Memorial Scholarship

The Bansen Scholarship was begun in 1991 by Dora Bansen and her family, to honor their late husband and father, Stan. It is designated for a student who is pursuing graduate studies in the animal sciences, ag business or veterinary science.

The 1999-2000 recipient of this $1,000 award is Amy Plummer of Chalfont, Penna., currently a second-year student in veterinary medicine at The Ohio State University. Reproductive physiology is of special interest to this graduate of the University of Tennessee. She has assisted with embryo transfer and conducted research on IGF-1 and BST.

Advanced Bovine Technologies Award

Advanced Bovine Technologies LLC of Edgewood, N. M., provided $1,000 this year to support a student who demonstrates, through his/her academic program of study, goal statement and supporting letters, the clear intention to pursue a career in agriculture. The recipient is David A. Jordan, a senior majoring in agriculture leadership education at the University of Illinois.

Jordan is the son of Robert and Joan Jordan, Assumption, Ill., and earned numerous honors through his 4-H and FFA work, including the American FFA Degree. He has maintained a GPA of 3.44 at the University of Illinois, with extracurricular activities including the Agriculture Education Club, the Illinois Dairy Club, and the Illinois Dairy Judging Teams. Over the past two summers, he has completed internships with Novartis, the American Jersey Cattle Association and Select Sires, Inc.

ABS Global/Ewing Scholarship

The tenth scholarship to be presented during the Junior Banquet will be the ABS Global/Morris B. Ewing Scholarship. This winning essay was submitted by Kristin Barlass.

Awards For 2000-2001

Applications for the 2000-2001 Jersey Youth Scholarships will be available April 1, 2000 on AJCA website (www.USJersey.com) and must be returned to the office by July 1.

U.S. Jerseys on Parade

Nearly 500 Registered Jerseys will be on exhibit at the 42nd All American Jersey Show and Sale, November 6 through 8 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition in Louisville, Kentucky.

The All American is the U.S. national show and much more. The All American, first held in 1946, is always one of the largest dairy cattle shows in the United States, by any standard. Thousands of dollars will be awarded in the National Jersey Jug Futurity for 3-year-old cows (the 1998 Winner received $1,725). Thousands of dollars also will be spent on superior Jersey genetics in the All American Sale, which averaged $5,909.52 on 63 lots in 1998. Based upon previous years, more than 200 milking females will enter the ring in the All American show.

Olive Oil Adds Tradition And Flavor To Your Table

Heritage of Olive Oil

In the past decade, we have learned more about the flavor, the added health benefits and the overall wonders of olive oil. No longer is olive oil only associated with Italian cuisine. It has become a staple in many American kitchens and restaurants—whether used in cooking, as a light oil for salads and vegetables or a richly flavored alternative to butter for bread. While we have come to appreciate the flavor and health benefits, many of us don't realize the rich tradition behind each bottle of Italian olive oil.

Each olive oil is a unique product of the right mixture of olive varieties and age, as well as the climate and mixture of soil where the olives are grown. It starts with the soil—the well-drained rocky soil of the Mediterranean hills and plateaus is the finest olive-producing region on earth. The sun-drenched days coupled with temperate nights cooled by Mediterranean breezes help produce the finest olives in the world.

Olives are harvested from mid-November to early March, six to eight months after the olive trees' blossoms first appear. The transformation from olive to oil is an art form—one that has been passed down from generation to generation in many of Italy's oldest families. For thousands of years, the olives were crushed with stones. And today, every step of the process, including the mechanical crushing of the olives, still maintains a wealth of family tradition.

Much of this tradition lies in discerning the quality of the oil produced from the crushing. First, the olive oil must be tasted by a panel of olive oil masters who judge the oil for flavor, aroma and appearance. The olive master's job is highly specialized and requires years of apprenticeship in the age-old art and tradition of Italian olive oil making. Even families such as the Fontana family, producers of one of the region's oldest olive oils, Filippo Berio Olive Oil, have only one or two olive oil masters from each generation and perhaps five olive oil masters in the company at any given time.

Through a stringent rating system, the olive oil must meet exacting standards. Laboratory testing is conducted to confirm its purity and to assess levels of oxidation and acidity, both of which influence the quality of the oil. Using an innate sense that has become second nature, the Italian olive oil master can quickly tell if an olive oil shows enough promise to be suitable for bottling.

Through careful selection, the olive oil master can combine olive oils from Italy and other Mediterranean countries to produce a superb olive oil that is uniquely Italian in flavor and tradition. Following are several varieties of Italian olive oils.

- Extra Virgin—produced by cold pressing, it is the most flavorful of olive oils. It is full, rich and fruity with peppery notes. With fine flavor and pleasant aroma, it comes from the first pressing of the olive.
- Olive Oil—or Pure Olive Oil, as it is known in the United States, offers a blend of refined olive oil and Virgin or Extra Virgin olive oil. It has a mellow flavor.
- Extra Light Tasting—has a slightly sweet and delicate flavor.
- Organic—made from olives grown within organic farming standards, it has a fine fruity flavor.
- Low Acidity—made with Extra Virgin olive oil that has less than half the maximum acidity of regular Extra Virgin olive oil. It has a very smooth, fruity flavor.

Following are some ideas and recipes that will help bring the rich tradition of olive oil into your home this season.

Discover More Ways To Enhance Your Family's Healthy Eating With Great Flavor

Write or call for a free copy of 101 Ways to Use Filippo Berio Olive Oil. It contains easy-to-use health tips and lots of suggestions for adding olive oil to your family's diet every day. With everything from breakfast ideas, appetizers, sauces, and main courses to beauty and household tips, this brochure has something for everyone. For a free copy, write to: 101 Ways to Use Filippo Berio Olive Oil, 255 Route 17 South, Hackensack, NJ 07601.

Quick Alternatives Using Olive Oil

- Season vegetables with extra virgin olive oil, lemon juice and herbs—a great way to reduce salt while enhancing the flavor.
- When a recipe calls for melted butter, margarine or for any other oil, substitute the same amount of olive oil.
- Next time you're bringing a house-gift, take a bottle of extra virgin olive oil, Special Selection or Organic, instead of a bottle of wine. No designated driver will be needed!

Healthy-Heart Alternatives

- 98 million Americans—half the population—have high cholesterol.
- Olive oil has no cholesterol and no salt—and actually lowers cholesterol.
- Although olive oil has the same number of calories as other oils, it is low in polyunsaturated and saturated fat, but high in monounsaturated fat. Monounsaturated fat is the "good" fat that lowers the harmful cholesterol (Low density lipoproteins or LDLs) while maintaining the helpful cholesterol (High density lipoproteins or HDLs)—in turn, lowering total cholesterol levels.

Skillet Shrimp with Rotini

Warm-weather favorites tossed into one dish—this recipe combines the flavors and colors that will make it one of the season's favorites for the entire family.

- 3 tablespoons olive oil (pure or extra light tasting)
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 cups uncooked rotini (or other curly pasta)
- 3 cups chicken broth
- 1 cup asparagus tips (or broccoli florets)
- 3/4 pound raw medium shrimp, shelled and deveined
- 3/4 cup halved cherry tomatoes
- 1/4 cup pitted ripe olives
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
- 1 teaspoon dried basil leaves
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper

In a large skillet, heat olive oil over medium heat until hot. Add onion and garlic, cook and stir 4 to 6 minutes, or until onion is softened but not brown. Add pasta; stir to coat pasta with oil. Increase heat to high; pour in chicken broth. Bring to a boil.

Reduce heat to a medium-high; cook, stirring occasionally, 12 to 14 minutes or until pasta is al dente (tender but still firm).

Add asparagus. Cook, stirring frequently, 2 to 3 minutes or until asparagus is tender-crisp. Add shrimp, tomatoes, olives, oregano and basil. Cook, stirring frequently, 3 minutes or until liquid is almost absorbed and shrimp are opaque (do not overcook shrimp).

Season to taste with salt and pepper. Serves: 4 Prep time: 10 minutes Cooking time: 25 minutes Nutrient analysis per serving: 428 calories, 30.5 g protein, 42 g carbohydrates, 210 mg cholesterol, 15.5 g total fat, 2.4 g sat fat, 2.27 g poly fat, 9.4 g mono fat

Fresh Tomato Sauce

Fresh from your garden to the pot, this sauce is something the entire family will love for summer. The best part: it's quick and easy for even one of summer's hottest days and will easily become a year-round favorite. Steam some garden vegetables and toss with cooked pasta for a summer primavera.

- 3 pounds ripe fresh plum tomatoes
- 1 large onion, finely chopped
- 1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
- 1 tablespoon dried basil leaves

Immerse tomatoes in boiling water for 1 minute. Remove from water, plunge into cold water and peel skins, using a sharp paring knife.

In a heavy, non-aluminum saucepan, sauté onion 3 to 5 minutes in olive oil until tender. Stir with a wooden spoon.

Add tomatoes, pepper, sugar, oregano and basil. Cover and simmer over low heat for 45 minutes, stirring occasionally.

If not used immediately, cool and pour into a jar and cover with 1/4 inch of extra virgin olive oil to keep flavor. Will keep in refrigerator for one week.

Yield: 4 3/4 cups tomato sauce Prep time: 15 minutes Cooking time: 50 minutes Nutrient analysis per serving: 205 calories, 3.7 g protein, 18.9 g carbohydrates, 6.5 g dietary fiber, 0 mg cholesterol, 14 g total fat, 2 g sat fat, 1.5 g poly fat, 10 g mono fat

Tri-color Pepper Salad

A simple salad of sautéed bell peppers is a delightful garnish for any meal or picnic. It can be eaten warm or prepared in advance and served cold. Drizzle some Extra Virgin olive oil on cold salad for an extra rich flavor.

- 1/4 cup extra light tasting olive oil
- 1 red bell pepper, cut into 2-inch julienne strips
- 1 yellow bell pepper, cut into 2-inch julienne strips
- 1 green bell pepper, cut into 2-inch julienne strips
- 2 cloves garlic (or 2 shallots or scallions), minced
- 1 teaspoon dried basil leaves

- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
- 1/4 teaspoon salt (optional)
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper

Heat olive oil in a large skillet over medium heat. Add peppers and garlic and sauté over medium heat for 15 minutes until soft.

When peppers are soft, add basil, parsley, salt, and black pepper. Mix well and serve at room temperature or chilled.

Cooking time: 15 minutes Nutrient analysis per serving: 136 calories; 7 g protein, 3.8 g carbohydrates, .8 g dietary fiber, 0 mg cholesterol, 14 g total fat, 1.9 g sat fat, 1.3 g poly fat, 10 g mono fat

Healthy Heart Biscuits

Just like your grandmother's—but updated for a healthier heart. Great with all of summer's favorite fruits and berries.

- 2 cups unbleached all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 cup extra light tasting olive oil
- 2/3 cup 1 percent milk

Preheat oven to 400 F. Sift flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar into a bowl.

Add olive oil and milk and stir with a wooden spoon to form a ball of soft dough.

Knead dough about ten times on a lightly floured surface. Roll out dough until 1/2-inch thick. Cut six or seven biscuits with a 3-inch cutter or glass, rerolling dough scraps again and cutting rounds until you have 8 biscuits.

Bake on ungreased baking sheet for 25 to 30 minutes until lightly browned. Cool on wire racks.

Joyce Bupp

That telltale dusting.

Pale white. Like a ghost at dawn. Sprinkled over the tops of the round bales in the meadow, like sugar on a doughnut.

Frost. Imminent hint of what's to come. Sooner. Or later.

So the calendar says October. But in reality, the first real Big Chill turns a pretend-page to an imaginary 13th month squeezed in. A time-period of lingering year-end chores. A time we might call the month of Transition.

During the month of Transition, out comes the electric blanket. Away goes the window fan.

Up go the screens and down come the storm panes in the house windows. Completing that dreaded job is always cause for celebration - it means the annual window-washing is over. Which always desperately needs to be done.

Transition means putting the shorts and lightweight teeshirts into the back of the closet. And replacing them with thermal underwear and heavier socks.

Away go the sandals and out come the knee boots. The summer blessing of running barefooted is a bane in winter to those of us who are cold-feet intolerant. While we're at it, unearth the lightweight gloves and sweatshirts and sweaters and quilted flannel shirts for barn chores on freeze-flirting mornings.

Banished during Transition are the cotton-poly-blend summer sheets and warmly embraced are the soft, fluffy, flannel replacements. Crawling between electric-blanket warmed sheets in a non-heated room on a frosty night is a cheap luxury. Why shiver when one can be toasty-warm with little extra cost or effort?

Transition closes the basement and upstairs doors, slowing the flow of chilly air which permeates every corner of this old house. Transition fires up the woodstove, burning it low, but generating drying warmth to chase the perpetual fall chill. When this shaded, brick house gets damp, it stays damp until coaxed into comfort with supplemental heat.

We begin hoarding our diminishing supply of ripe tomatoes, and lean more on a refrigerator stash of the gorgeous heads of cauliflower which come into their glory during Transition. The Farmer and our grandson hauled some beauties home from a roadside produce stand, a seasonably-dependable treat sold along one of the routes they travel for equipment parts. Keeping the white curds company was the largest head of cabbage I have ever laid eyes on. Even after slicing off and sharing part of it, we went into cabbage overdrive to keep it from going to waste. Our Transition-time dining has leaned toward cabbage slaw, boiled cabbage, cabbage-based vegetable soup, etc., etc.

Transition clears the porch of its summer houseplants, moved to the greenhouse and windowsills, or reduced to cuttings for the first gardening season in the next century. (Or the last one in this century, depending on which math philosophy you follow.) Spurred by frost threats, we lift amaryllis bulbs and dahlia roots, lop off sunflower heads, pick the last lima beans, pot up the geraniums, and mark colors of the mums in bloom for dividing in spring.

Replacing them in the ground are bulbs - tulips and hyacinths, daffodil, daffodils and more daffodils. While planting out summer annuals in May, I unearthed several clumps of "daffs" which needed to be separated. Now a bucketful of them patiently waits to be tucked into new homes on some nice Transition afternoon.

During Transition, the "girls" get a daily vacation outside, as we turn them out on the fields to harvest tender ryegrass and early, late alfalfa. Despite having half the farm to roam over - temporarily fenced - at least one or two daily must go poke around along the interstate highway barrier. Blessed are our friends, neighbors, and perfect strangers who call or stop by to warn us of these adventurous troublemakers.

And greeting me on the front porch just moments ago was not one, not two, but three of the season of Transitions most notable "logos." fuzzy, black-and-brown Woolly Bear caterpillars. One worming its way into a tiny space between the bricks. Another wiggling up the front door. The third, right behind it. All appeared to be deliberately trying to get in the house.

Woolly Bears seeking house-interior refuge during Transition.

It that scary or what?

Generate Daylily Plants

COLUMBUS, Ohio — There are many diverse varieties of daylilies. Wild daylilies are yellow to red, by hybridizers have created many new colors. A variety named "Outrageous" is a bright-orange color with a bright-red eye (inside the throat of the flower) that bleeds into the petals.

Ohio State's John Finer, a plant geneticist at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center in Wooster, said it's simple to make your own flower crosses and generate intriguing new colors for your garden.

To cross daylilies, first tear out the anther - the part containing shedding yellow pollen - from the flower. Next, gently rub the yellow pollen on to the end of the stigma of another flower. In each flower, there will be six anthers, or male parts, one stigma, or female part. If the cross is successful, a seed pod will begin forming inside the flower in about one week.

After the pod forms, seed harvesting is necessary. The seeds should be harvested before the pod dries out and spills its contents. Remove the pod and open it, removing all seeds. Allow the seeds to air dry for about two weeks. After they air dry, store them in the refrigerator for two or four more weeks and then plant them in moist soil and allow plenty of sunlight.

Finer said his daughter, who helps him cross daylily varieties at home, likens the process to painting. "We mix colors to create new shades, and by mixing the proper combinations of genes from a daylily cross, you can produce new and unusual flower colors."

Anyone can cross daylilies or other flowers and harvest the seeds that develop. Crossing daylilies can be both fun and rewarding, but patience is important in the creative process. Finer said it could take up to three years before the seeds produced from your daylily cross are mature enough to produce flowers.

First 4-H Horse Skillathon At Ag Progress

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Ag Progress Days recently conducted its first 4-H Youth Equine Skillathon here.

4-H youth competed for premiums and savings bonds in three categories. Those categories included showmanship; a class that all 4-H'ers must do at their county roundup to complete a performance horse project; and a written test that covered general knowledge relating to horses and identification stations of horse-related items and diagrams.

The contest mirrors similar contests held throughout the state. This was the second year for a lamb skillathon also conducted during Ag Progress Days.

Contestants registered in advance and were required to be enrolled in a 4-H horse project. The 4-H'ers were required to bring their own horses for showmanship, their 1999 project horse. Three age groups were rotated through the three competitions simultaneously.

Skillathon organizer was Kathy Brown, Bellefonte, a long-time 4-H volunteer. She was assisted by Karen Myers, Spring Mills, and Jana Peters, Pennsylvania Furnace, also 4-H leaders.

Showmanship judge was Stacy Urbanik, a former 4-H member.

In scoring, stations made up 30 points, written test 30 points, and showmanship, 40 points. The overall champion received a $200 savings bond. Overall reserve won a $100 savings bond. Premiums were paid in each category and division, first through fifth.

Three age categories were 8-11, 12-14, and 15-18.

Following is a list of show placings.

HORSE SKILLATHON AT AG PROGRESS RESULTS

Age Group 1 (8-11 Years): 1. Samantha James. 2. Lauren Eichstadt. 3. Jennifer Rudy.
Age Group 2 (12-14 Years): 1. Shelly Campbell. 2. Kitty Peters. 3. Rebecca James.
Age Group 3 (15-18 Years): 1. Rebecca Barnhart. 2. Katie Comerford. 3. Lindsey Geisel.

Home Canned Can Be More Economical, Nutritious

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — If you're looking for ways to save money and get back to basics, try home canning. Canning can be an excellent, low cost method of preserving foods.

"The principal advantage of canning home-grown produce is that it can be a lot cheaper than buying fruits and vegetables," says Luke LaBorde, assistant professor of food science in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "And you're harvesting them at their optimum flavor and maturity, so you get a better product."

According to LaBorde, fruits and vegetables begin losing vitamins as soon as they are harvested. About half of their vitamins may be lost within a few days. Preserving produce immediately can prevent much of this loss.

Before canning food, it's important to do your homework, LaBorde says. Both first-time and experienced canners run the risk of causing food-borne illness if they are not careful. Canning preserves food by removing oxygen, destroying enzymes and preventing growth of undesirable bacteria, yeasts and molds.

For safety's sake, he says, always begin with top-quality produce.

"Can fruits and vegetables picked from your garden or purchased from nearby growers when the produce is at its peak," recommends LaBorde. "Fruits and vegetables should be fully ripe but not overripe and should be free of diseases and bruises."

"Peaches and other stone fruits should be ripened one or more days between harvest and canning. Other fresh fruits and vegetables should be canned immediately. If you must wait, keep produce in a cool, dark place."

The bacterium Clostridium botulinum poses the most serious threat. Growth of this bacterium in canned foods may cause botulism, a deadly form of food poisoning. "Just a taste of food containing this toxin can be fatal," said LaBorde.

"Low-acid foods, such as meat, poultry, seafood and vegetables must be preserved using a pressure canner," LaBorde says. "Boiling-water canners do not destroy the bacterium that causes botulism."

Your canned foods should pass this test:

- Full jars should have proper head space (the space between the food and the lid).

- Liquids should just cover solids.

- Jars should be free of air bubbles.

- Produce should be free of imperfections as well as stems, cores and seeds.

- Jars should be properly sealed.

- Food should have a characteristic, uniform color.

"The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has issued research-based recommendations concerning canning and food safety," says LaBorde. "If you decide to preserve your own food, make sure you follow these recommendations."

The USDA has prepared a comprehensive publication that contains up-to-date recommendations for canning food at home. "The Complete Guide to Home Canning" (Bulletin #539) is invaluable for people who are canning for the first time.

Experienced canners will find information to help them improve their practices.

The guide explains the scientific principles of canning, discusses canning equipment and describes basic canning ingredients and procedures. It is available for $6 from the College of Agricultural Sciences Publications Distribution Center. For ordering information, call (814) 865-6713.

County Council Elects Officers

On Sept. 13, County Council conducted their first meeting for the 1999-2000 year, at the county extension office in Montrose at 7:30 p.m.

Officer election results were: president, Jason Corey; vice president, Joellyn himka; secretary, Stacey Rezykowski; song and game leaders, Dana Wells and Ben Hibbard; and news reporter, Jaimie Himka.

Members interested in joining county council should call the extension office at (570) 278-1158 and ask for Rosie Hibbard or come to the next meeting Nov. 8 at 7:30 p.m. Members must be 13 years of age or over.

Festival A Celebration Of Apples

JINNY WILT

Adams Co. Correspondent

ARENDSVILLE (Adams Co.) — The record-breaking crowd was happy and in a spending mood, making the vendors at the 35th Annual National Apple Harvest Festival here smile.

Also smiling were sponsors of the event, the Upper Adams Jaycees and their spokeswoman Dawn Bodenberg, who said that each individual was not counted, but festival admissions paid showed that all previous attendance records had been broken.

"People are happy and buying all kinds of things, including Christmas gifts," Bodenberg said. Three-hundred craft people and 35 food vendors were set up on the grounds of the South Mountain Fairgrounds.

She noted that the number of vendors was about the same as last year, although there were some who had attended in the past who dropped out when the fee to take part in the festival was raised this year, but others took their places.

The festival was Oct. 2-3 and 9-10, and next year is scheduled Oct. 7-8 and 14-15.

During a free tour, which leaves the fairgrounds and travels by a school bus over the back roads of the Adams County countryside and through the orchards, information on the celebration of apple is provided.

Some of the highlights of the tour included:

- The International Apple Institute notes that the apple developed in nature as a member of the rose family.

- Reference to the apple is found in ancient writings from China, Egypt, and Babylon.

- Roman legions carried apples through Europe because of their "keeping" quality.

- Grafting young apple trees is the way apples are produced. Planting a Red Delicious apple seed will not do it.

- The first apples grown in America were cultivated in the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

- Today, apples grow in 35 states that have a winter season. Apple trees must have 30 to 60 days of cold weather to shed their leaves and remain dormant.

- Of the 2,500 varieties grown in the United States, only about 20 kind are grown in Adams County because of the ideal conditions of weather, rolling hillsides, and well-drained soils.

- More than 20,000 acres of Adams County land is planted in orchards and half of that is in apples. Between six and eight million bushels of apples are produced each year in Adams County.

Vendors attend the festival from states throughout the Mid-Atlantic and Northeast.

On the outer edge of the Wolf parking lot those who did not wish to carry heavy bags of apples through the festival grounds were able to stop by the Gettysburg Optimist Club stand for take-home fruit or cider.

Manned by Optimist Club and Gettysburg Boy Scout Troop 79 members, the apple stand is only part of the club's activities at the festival.

Steve Toddes, Optimist Club past president, explained that because a stand inside the festival grounds where the club members make apple jelly takes up most of the group's manpower, the Boy Scouts agreed to help out.

Milton Kuharske, also a past president of the club, explained that "every kid in the Gettysburg School District benefits" from the scouts' and club members' hard work at the festival.

Toddes explained that $500 is given away to each elementary school in the district to be used in the Reading is Fundamental program thus touching each student. Kuharske said "We give very nickel to youth."

The Optimist Club is only one of many service groups that benefit from the funds raised at the festival.

The next event featuring the apple will be The Apple Blossom Festival the first full weekend in May at the fairgrounds and sponsored by the Adams County Fruit Growers Association.

The International Apple Institute offers this advice to help you on your way to "5 a day" with apples:

- Whip up a frozen apple-sauce "slushie" in your blender for a breakfast beverage.

- Stash dried apples in your glove compartment or desk for a quick pickup.

- Slice an apple onto your sandwich for a crunchy treat.

- Dice an apple into salad for an extra zip.

- Drink apple juice instead of coffee during your morning commute.

- Microwave cored apple in a little juice or cider for a quick, low-calorie dessert.

According to the Institute, each of the following recipes provides at least one serving of apples or an apple product per portion, and meets strict guidelines for fat, saturated fat, sodium, and cholesterol content set by the "5 a Day — For Better Health" program. You can try these recipes with different apple varieties than those called for in the recipe.

HOT APPLE SAUCE

1 pound can of applesauce (chunky is nice)

1 teaspoon cinnamon

4-6 tablespoons brown sugar

1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

1/4 cup raisins

Combine and pour into a buttered oven-proof bowl. Dot with butter. Cover with aluminum foil and heat in oven until hot. good with many meats, can be put in oven while meat is roasting, and can heat at same temperature. Anything from 300-400 degrees works.

FRENCH-STYLE CHICKEN WITH APPLES

6 boneless, skinless chicken breasts

1 sliced onion

10-ounce can condense chicken broth

3 tablespoons apple cider, or apple juice

3 sweet-tart or tart apples, cored and sliced

6-8 canned artichoke hearts, drained and cut in half

Pinch each of ground cinnamon, nutmeg, salt and pepper

Minced fresh dill or parsley

Spray a large non-stick skillet with cooking spray. Brown chicken breasts on both sides. Remove chicken from skillet and set aside. Stir in sliced onion, apples, artichokes, broth, juice and spices. Cook 3 minutes.

Spread chicken breasts in skillet; arrange apples, onion, and artichokes on top. Simmer, covered, about 10 minutes or until chicken is tender and heated through. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Garnish with fresh parsley or dill and apple slices. Makes 6 servings.

APPLE HARVEST PANCAKES

2 cups Bisquick

1-1/4 cup cider

1/4 cup dried milk

1 egg

2 tablespoons melted butter

1 teaspoon sugar

3/4 cup chopped, peeled fresh apple

Mix all ingredients but apple with rotary beater. Stir in apples by hand. Bake on hot greased griddle. Complete packaged pancake may be used, substituting apple cider for water called for in the commercial mixes, and adding chopped apple as above mix by hand.

GOLDEN APPLE OATMEAL

1/2 cup (about 1/2 medium) diced sweet apple

1/3 cup each apple juice and water

1/8 teaspoon salt (optional)

Dash each ground cinnamon and nutmeg

1/3 cup quick-cooking rolled oats, uncooked

Combine apples, juice, water and seasonings; bring to boil. Stir in rolled oats; cook 1 minute. Cover and let stand several minutes before serving. Makes a 1 cup serving.

Apple recipes provided by the Jaycees follow.

"SPICE APPLES"

1/4 pound red cinnamon candies

1 cup sugar

1-1/2 cups water.

Boil all ingredients about 3 minutes. Peel and quarter (or slice into rings) eight apples. Simmer in liquid until firm-tender. Good garnish for ham, pork, or fowl.

Attract Birds To Feeders

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.) — Homeowners can feed birds all year long," said Margaret Brittingham, associate professor of wildlife resources. "However, it can become expensive, and most birds will find more than enough food in the wild during the summer."

Brittingham said homeowners should realize that a single bird feeder will not attract every bird in their landscape. Birds with distinct feeding habits will be attracted to markedly different feeders.

• Platform feeders. These simple feeders often are nothing more than a pile of seed on a flat board. More elaborate models have a roof. Ground-feeding birds such as cardinals, sparrows, and juncos prefer platform feeders.

"The drawback to platform feeders is that food often is exposed to the elements and can be soiled by droppings," Brittingham said.

• Hopper Feeders. These feeders fill from the top and seed flow down to the bottom where the birds can remove them. Some types hang and feature perches. These feeders attract the greatest diversity of birds because they are used by birds that prefer platform feeders along with ones that use hanging feeders.

• Hanging Feeders. Shaped like a tube, this style features small perches, attracting smaller birds such as chickadees, titmice and finches.

• Suet Feeders. Suet feeders offer suet, a type of animal fat, in a wire box or basket. These can be hung or placed on a platform. They attract a variety of birds, especially woodpeckers, chickadees, wrens, titmice and nuthatches.

• Thistle feeders. Thistle seeds are very small. This tubular feeder attracts mainly finches.

Brittingham said the menu homeowners offer birds is crucial for attracting a diversity of birds. She recommends several types of feed.

• Black Oil Sunflower Seeds. Eaten by large and small bird species, this seed is the best all-around feeding seed, Brittingham said. Finches, nuthatches, titmice and chickadees will use this feed. The larger, striped sunflower seed will attract blue jays and cardinals.

• Seed Mixes. Brittingham warns homeowners that some inexpensive seed mixes contain large amounts of seed that birds do not eat. "Birds dislike grains like millet, milo, hulled oats and rice," she said. "It seems cheaper, but it's more expensive in the long run because the birds are just tossing it on the ground."

Brittingham recommends buying seed mixes at a garden supply store or pet store.

If homeowners do not want to feed year-round, Brittingham suggests putting bird feeders out in October. "You can start in September if you want to attract some of the songbirds that migrate through Pennsylvania," she added.

Homeowners should feed through the winter and spring. She said migratory songbirds may come to feeders if food is provided through May. Brittingham suggested placing a variety of feeder types to lure a wide range of bird species.

"You should place feeders close enough that you can see birds through a window, but far enough away that you aren't bothered by discarded seeds and bird droppings," Brittingham said.

Homeowners shouldn't feel the need to constantly refill their feeders when the supply runs low. Brittingham said past research projects revealed that birds get about 20 percent of their food needs from bird feeders. "Birds depend mainly on their natural habitat for food," she said. "Feeders are a supplement to their diet."

Brittingham said many birds remain loyal to their favorite feeders, returning year after year. She emphasized that homeowners should remember a few tips to keep birds coming back for more.

• Place the feeder less than 20 feet away from cover, such as trees, shrubs, or brush so birds will feel protected when feeding.

• Provide a water source, such as a fountain or birdbath, if there is no natural water source nearby.

• If a home's windows are highly reflective, birds may fly into them, particularly if trees are reflected in the windows. Brittingham suggested hanging garden netting, which is fine enough to be nearly transparent, yet protects birds from injuries.

"Once you decide what types of feeders to use, you just have to wait for the birds to come," Brittingham said. "If you're just starting to feed birds, I'd suggest buying a good field guide so you can identify the birds. You don't have to buy binoculars, but they do help you see details that you wouldn't normally get to see."

QUESTION — K. B., York Springs, would like a recipe to make rotisserie chicken that tastes like that made by Rutters' Mini Market.

ANSWER — Thanks to G. M. for sending a barbecue sauce recipe for Evan.

Tomato Barbecue Sauce

4 teaspoons powdered mustard
 ¼ cup water
 2 quarts diced, fresh tomatoes
 ½ cup chopped onion
 2 cloves garlic, chopped
 1 cup fresh lemon juice
 1 cup cider vinegar
 ¼ cup light-brown sugar
 1 tablespoon salt
 4 teaspoons paprika
 2 teaspoons cayenne
 2 tablespoons bottled red hot sauce
 Mix mustard and water and let stand until ready to use. Cook tomatoes, onion, and garlic in a covered saucepan 25 minutes. Rub mixture through a sieve. Discard pulp. Add mustard and remaining ingredients. Bring to boiling point. Pour into hot half-pint jars. Adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath 10 minutes, counting the time after water reaches boiling point. Store for future use. To use, heat to boiling point with 1 tablespoon butter to each ½ pint sauce. Use for barbecuing all meats or poultry. Yield: 6 jars, ½ pint each.

ANSWER — Thanks to Sue McKinsey, Windsor, for sending this recipe for a York reader.

APPLE BREAD

3 cups unsifted flour
 1½ teaspoons baking soda
 1 teaspoon salt
 ½ teaspoon cinnamon
 ½ teaspoon cloves
 ½ teaspoon nutmeg
 2 cups sugar
 1½ cups vegetable oil
 4 eggs
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 4 cups peeled and coarsely chopped apples
 1 cup chopped walnuts
Topping:
 ½ cup flour
 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 ½ teaspoon cinnamon
 ¼ cup butter
 Combine topping into crumbs and refrigerate while you mix the bread.
 Grease and flour two loaf pans. Stir together flour, baking soda, salt, and spices. In a separate bowl, beat together until smooth, sugar, vegetable oil, eggs, and vanilla. Stir in apples and nuts.
 Turn into prepared pan. Sprinkle with topping. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 1¼ hours. Cool 10 minutes and then turn out of pan. Cool completely before slicing.

Children Need Smart Money Skills

TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) — Whatever the age of your children, it's not too early to teach and encourage them to spend and save wisely and to be disciplined about money. Tama McLeese, author of "Money Power for Families," said: "Children should be taught to look at saving money as deferred spending—putting off spending right now so the money compounds into a much larger pot to fund greater spending."

Children understand spending: it's saving that needs some parental guidance.

Give your child a regular allowance in denominations that make it easy to save. A $5 allowance, in $1 bills, makes it easy to put $1 in savings. Give a weekly sum at ages five or six. As your child gets older, increase the sum to include school expenses, entertainment, clothes, etc. A rule of thumb for a weekly allowance is up to $1 for each year of age. Earnings need to be large enough so children stay interested. Remember, a set sum goes into savings.

Experts disagree on whether or not parents should withhold an allowance as punishment or tie it in to the chores the child performed. Some feel allowances, like a salary, should be paid consistently so a child learns to budget, while insisting a child perform chores as a member of the family. Not because he or she will be paid. And when there is a need to discipline, take away other privileges, not the allowance.

The other viewpoint of tying allowances to completed tasks has a number of supporters—no work, no pay. Payment hinges on completion of the work. In addition, children are expected to do other duties as members of the family. A thank you is the reward.

Still others give a weekly sum to young children and a monthly cash outlay to teens. The important point to enforce, is that when the money's gone, it's gone. Parents should not bail out the spender.

Parents—and offspring—need to discuss the arrangement that will work best. There's no right or wrong way to teach children about money, as long as the method is consistent, clear and workable. Allow children to learn by mistakes and by successes. Encourage and praise rather than criticize.

Before setting the amount of cash they'll receive, ask how much money they'll spend. A good time to switch from a weekly to a monthly allowance is when children become teenagers. Increase the allowance so it covers most of the spending for clothes, movies, fast food or other choices. Allow teens to spend and save while managing their allowances. Practicing money management before leaving the nest can be an invaluable lesson.

ANSWER — J. Rouse wanted a recipe for maple syrup pork chops. Thanks to Wendy Furie, Frederick, Md., for sending one with Canadian origin.

Maple Country Pork Chops

6-8 pork chops ¾-inch thick
1 cup maple syrup
½ cup applesauce
¼ cup ketchup
3 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon each of salt, pepper, garlic powder, and cinnamon

Saute chops in oil until lightly browned on both sides. Mix maple syrup, applesauce, ketchup, lemon juice, and spices. Arrange chops in a single layer in an ungreased baking dish, and pour half the syrup mixture over them. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees for one hour or until tender; use the remaining syrup mixture to baste the chops periodically as they bake.

ANSWER — Thanks to June Hackenberger, Mifflintown, for sending her "delicious" recipe for bread.

Delicious Whole Wheat Dough

Blend in a glass measuring cup in order given and allow to stand 5 to 10 minutes until it bubbles up:

¼ cup very warm, but not hot, water
1 tablespoon active dry yeast
1 tablespoon honey
½ teaspoon vitamin C powder (optional to assist rising)
Blend in mixing bowl:
2 cups hot, but not boiling, water
2 teaspoons salt
½ cup honey
½ cup vegetable oil
½ teaspoon vitamin C powder (optional, for rising)
Mix in order given:
3 cups whole wheat flour
Yeast mixture

Stir in remaining flour while easy to stir, then turn dough out on a floured surface to knead in the remaining flour, about 3 cups whole wheat flour OR unbleached white flour

Knead 10 minutes, adding flour as needed to prevent sticking, using as little flour over the basic six cups as needed.

Place dough in lightly oiled bowl, oil top of dough lightly, cover with a cloth, and let rise in a warm place until double, about 1 to 1½ hours.

Punch down dough. Shape into 2 loaves and bake at 350 degrees for 35-40 minutes.

Think Through Tree-Trimming Decisions

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Heavy weather—thunderstorms, tornadoes and hurricanes—can exact a brutal toll on trees around homes, but an urban forestry expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences urges homeowners not to make rash decisions about cutting and pruning trees in the wake of a storm.

"Any big storm brings down trees that break power lines or damage buildings and cars as they fall," says Vincent Cotrone, Penn State Cooperative Extension urban forester based in Luzerne County. "But you don't want to inflict damage on the remaining trees by severely trimming them in a misguided attempt to prevent them from toppling in a future storm."

Following storms, there usually is a dramatic increase in tree-topping.

Homeowners believe topping a tree will prevent it from hitting the house in a future storm. In reality, topping and improper pruning will lead to internal decay and a weaker tree.

Cutting the central trunk and tops of main branches severely weakens a tree by removing leaves and stored carbohydrates. Topping reduces a tree's ability to generate food and energy by photosynthesis and promotes decay because branches are not removed at their point of attachment, the branch collar.

Cotrone lists several conditions caused by topping trees.

- Unsafe Structure. Topping trees leaves large wounds that are open to decay and insects, ultimately weakening the tree's structure. "The tree also will develop 'water sprouts,' which are weakly attached branches," Cotrone says.

- Decline in Health. In addition to losing the leaves' ability to produce food, topping causes the tree to use valuable food stored in the trunk to regrow limbs. Limb removal causes sunscald of the remaining limbs as well.

Cotrone offers tips on how to clean up toppled or damaged trees in the aftermath of a storm.

- Safety first. Stay clear of any downed power line. Never try to clear tree damage from any power line. "If you have a tree or branch threatening a power line, call the utility company," Cotrone says. "Also, always check trees for broken limbs that may be ready to fall."

- For big jobs, call an arborist. "If the tree is large, and pruning cuts have to be made off the ground, call a qualified arborist," he says. "Do not climb into a damaged tree with a chainsaw or other pruning gear."

- Don't rush into a decision. Cotrone recommends checking the credentials of any arborist. He suggests asking for references, certificates of insurance and whether they are members of professional associations such as the International Society of Arboriculture (which offers arborist certification) or the National Arborist Association.

"After a storm, many people will claim to be a tree specialist," Cotrone warns. "Be patient. If the tree is not an immediate hazard, take your time to find a professional who can explain how to repair damage to your tree or how to remove the tree safely."

Cotrone says homeowners can get information on tree pruning, repairing storm-damaged trees and how to hire a qualified arborist at any Penn State Cooperative Extension office or any Department of Conservation and Natural Resources Bureau of Forestry office.

'Wondeweful' Things Comprise Essay Contest For Lamb Exhibitor

LOU ANN GOOD

Lancaster Farming Staff
BERNVILLE (Berks Co.) —

Carrie Hartman is only 10 years old. But already she's had some amazing experiences.

She won a pair of purebred lambs for an essay she wrote. Someone wrote a poem about her that was published in a book, she has been paid for modeling, and she has collected more than 100 ribbons for showing sheep and cattle.

The daughter of Carol and Michael Hartman, Carrie has two brothers, John, 15, and Brian, 16. On their 85-acre Bernville farm, the Hartmans raise 22 sheep and a purebred Simmental beef herd. The sheep breeds include Southdowns, Suffolk, a Dorset, and crossbred market lambs.

Carrie explained that Del Val College 4-H Collegiate Club sponsored the essay contest that she won. Seven counties were eligible to compete. Out of 15 entries, Carrie won. Her brother John came in a close second.

Carrie wrote about life on the farm and her experiences in raising sheep, and as a member of the Berks County Sheep and Lamb Club, and the Beef Club.

Carrie wrote: While raising the

The Hartman family includes parents Carol and Michael Hartman, Carrie, 10; John, 15; and Brian, 16.

In an essay contest sponsored by Del Val College 4-H Collegiate Club for 4-H'ers in seven counties, 10-year-old Carrie Hartman won the purebred Southdown ram and ewe lamb from Kwisneck's Scenic View Farms in Clarksburg.

Southdown ewe and ram lambs, I hope to learn how to properly feed this breed of sheep. I know that Southdown lambs grow rapidly and they should be managed differently than my Suffolk sheep. I am interested in seeing how much they eat compared to my Suffolks. I'm also interested in seeing how fast my lambs can grow while on pasture.

"I also will learn how to set up a good breeding program so that I can have lots of Southdowns to show and sell in the future."

Carrie continued to write about the care of the lambs' hooves, vaccination and health care, and the importance of shearing lambs properly.

She ended by writing: "One of the most important things I can do while showing is to educate the public about all the good features of Southdown lambs. Maybe some day I will be the Berks County Lamb and Wool Queen. I would like people to know how warm wool can be.

"My lambs and I also would like to participate in the Mardi Gras. We like to have fun and play together."

The purebred Southdown ram and ewe lamb came from Kwisneck's Scenic View Farms in Clarksburg. The donated lambs came with a stipulation: Carrie had to sign a contract promising to show the pair at least at two shows and to have the ewe bred to the ram that she won and later to another registered Southdown ram.

When Carrie heard that she won, her mom said, "Carrie was bouncing all over the place and her daddy went into shock."

"The Southdown breed is one of the most popular breeds for 4-H'ers to show," Carrie's dad said.

That means there is stiff competition in the show ring.

The judges' decisions are not always what the Hartman family believes are fair, but as her dad said, "The kids need to learn the hard facts of reality when young. Life isn't always fair."

(Turn to Page B11)

On their 85-acre Bernville farm, the Hartman siblings raise a purebred Simmental beef herd in addition to sheep.

Although only 10 years old, Carrie has won the Berks County Junior Showman Award trophy and garnered about 100 ribbons from the shows she has participated in.

Invasive Plants May Be Top Environmental Issue

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.) — The most pervasive environmental threat of the 21st century may be cloaked in the guise of ordinary and often attractive plants, said a horticultural scientist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Most people aren't aware of the ecological damage invasive plants are inflicting on our biodiversity, our wildlife habitat and our native plant species," said Larry Kuhns, professor of ornamental horticulture. "Compared to invasive plants and weeds, the chemical pollutants of the '60s, '70s, and '80s will be considered an easy cleanup."

Kuhns says an invasive plant is defined as a plant that grows aggressively, spreads and displaces other plants in an ecosystem. A small number of invasive species are native to Pennsylvania, which means they grew in the state before settlement by Europeans. Most invasive species, Kuhns explains, were brought to Pennsylvania from other continents. These species often are called "alien," "exotic," "introduced," or "non-native."

"These plants have been introduced in environments where there are no diseases or pests to control them," Kuhns said. "They often are silent threats because most people aren't aware of invasive plants, or don't notice them spreading into a new environment."

Kuhns says many species now considered invasive originally were introduced intentionally as landscape plants or for other purposes. Kuhns listed 10 invasive plant species most commonly found in Pennsylvania ecosystems.

- Tree of heaven. This tree has invaded many states. It produces a huge amount of seed, which is easily spread by the wind along roadways. It grows very fast — as much as 10 feet in a single season — and can grow more than 60 feet tall. It also spreads by producing new shoots from its extensive root system.

- Autumn olive. Introduced as a wildlife cover, this shrub produces large amounts of seed that are widely spread by birds.

- Multiflora rose. This shrub, classified as a noxious weed by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, also was introduced as a wildlife cover. Its seeds are spread by birds. "This plant has a biological control," Kuhns said. "A virus affecting it has spread in the Midwest and has reached Ohio."

- Purple loosestrife. Another Pennsylvania noxious weed, purple loosestrife invades wetlands and sites that have been disturbed or cultivated. Its seeds are easily transported by animals or vehicles. Its vibrant purple flowers and long growing season make it attractive to uninformed gardeners.

- Japanese knotweed. Also called Japanese bamboo, this plant spreads along rivers and in soil. It grows to nearly 10 feet, but provides little cover or food for wildlife. Its spread by seed is limited, but it has an extensive root system, which makes it difficult to control.

- Phragmites, or the common reed. Common to wetland areas, this plant has native and introduced varieties. It forms huge colonies, pushing out native plants and wildlife.

- Canada thistle. This is a Pennsylvania noxious weed that spreads by airborne seeds. It creates serious problems in farm crops.

- Poison hemlock. Unrelated to the hemlock tree, this herbaceous plant is what the philosopher Socrates mixed into a drink to commit suicide. "It's related to water hemlock, which happens to be more poisonous than poison hemlock," Kuhns said.

- Japanese stiltgrass. An annual grass, it has invaded woodlands across the state. It has been a hindrance to forest regeneration, Kuhns says.

- Mile-a-minute vine. A Pennsylvania noxious weed, this plant's range is expanding through the state. It can grow six inches a day and more than 25 feet in one growing season. It can smother small saplings and seedlings in developing forests or reforested land.

"Invasive plants threaten the habitat of two-thirds of all threatened and endangered wildlife species," Kuhns said. "The best way to control these plants is to familiarize yourself with them and work with local officials and agencies to start eradication programs."

Cruel Humor?

In the pre-teen and adolescent years, a parent's comments said in jest can be taken seriously by the adolescent, causing self-doubt and insecurity.

Said to a young boy, "When are you going to start growing? Your sister is going to beat you," and "Look at the peach fuzz."

Said to a young girl, "Do you think you'll ever have a shapely figure?" "You're just a tomboy, you'll never become a lady."

So-called humor or teasing by a parent is actually worse than slapping a child across the face. It amounts to tearing a young adolescent to pieces while everyone in the family has a good laugh.

Some parents think this kind of humor is good, that "it toughens them up!"

Actually, this primitive kind of humor destroys self-esteem and self-confidence in a child. The child begins questioning his normality and may set out to prove to the "humorous" parent that he is growing up by using cruel humor/actions on his peers, those he sees as superior to himself, by turning to drugs, or other anti-social behavior.

Don't plant the seeds of suspicion in your child. Children are hurt by this bad form of humor. What is needed most is the parent's reassurance that the adolescent is normal, that each individual grows and matures at different times, and that the parent supports the individuality of each child.

Listen carefully to your "humorous" remarks. Physical hurt heals rapidly, but emotional hurt may take years to heal.

'Wondeweful' Things Comprise

Despite some disappointments, hard work and perseverance often pay off. Carrie reported that she was at the bottom of the class in the first showmanship event in which she competed. She confessed that she stood on the wrong side of the sheep when showing it.

She never made that mistake again. By the end of the year, Carrie won the Berks County Junior Showman Award trophy. She also has about 100 ribbons gathered from the shows she has participated in.

Carrie attends Strausstown Elementary School. Her brothers are active in Tulpenhocken FFA, which is in the Hamburg School District.

With all her earnings, Carrie is planning to purchase a horse to ride.

"I have a horse picked out to buy as soon as I sell my steer and market lamb," Carrie said. She also plans to buy another Southdown ewe to increase her flock to eight head.

Carrie has her brother John to thank for introducing the family to raising sheep. John is said to have had no interest in schooling, but "took a shining to sheep." So his parents purchase a few market lambs and a breeding ewe, and the rest is history.

John also got a Simmental to raise for 4-H competition. Now the whole family is into raising purebred Simmentals.

"Simmental's are the most popular," John said of all beef breeds. "Simmentals have inheritable characteristics—size, big, lean, and good milking mothers."

If it's a black Simmental, they are right up there in placings with Angus, but if it's red, it comes in second.

With the herd, Carrie has a red heifer that she is raising to show.

Her father, Michael, said that state fair funding should be adjusted for fair premiums. He said that kids can make about $150 a sheep but only $25 on a steer.

Carrie has one steer and six sheep that she shows at Kutztown, Allentown, Oley, Reading (if they have it), Farmington Fairs, N.J., and Keystone International Livestock Exposition (KILE).

Carrie also participates in lead-line competition at KILE. With the help of her mother, Carrie sews her own outfit and shows a yearling ewe for the lead line competition. Judging is done on the lamb, the outfit of the exhibitor, and the exhibitor's ability to handle the sheep in the show ring.

Carrie takes dance classes twice weekly. "I love jazz, acro, Polynesian dancing," Carrie said.

She used to do modeling, but dropped it because she did not have enough time.

Another unusual accomplishment for Carrie was holding the record at Allentown Fair for the chin-up challenge in the 14-adult ages. Although she is only 10 years old, Carrie competed in the advanced group and held the title for three days.

Here is the poem that appears in a book. The poet, George Kershvel, who goes by the pen name Willie Everbe Knormale, wrote the poem about Carrie.

Sibling Support

The first-year 4-H freckle-faced kid received more approval than her entry did. The calf was groomed but only graded fair. The kid was shy with long, red hair.

Her two big brothers showed her what to do. She said, "I wanna be good like you."

Well don't show off. Keep him looking neat. Don't let old clumsy go stepping on your feet. If he does a "dirty" when the judge walks by, look the other way—keep your chin high. Smile just a little in the photo line, but don't do that dumb little pantomime.

Now listen here, Sis, whatever you do. Please make Mom and Dad proud of you.

And she sure did — wait 'til next year — she'll be showing a prize-winning steer.

Mifflin County 4-H Junior Leaders Earn Community Service Award

GAIL STROCK

Mifflin Co. Correspondent

LEWISTOWN (Mifflin Co.) — The Mifflin County junior leaders received a Milton W. Delancy Award from the Association of Township Supervisors Saturday, Oct. 2, during the leader recognition banquet at the Maitland Church of the Brethren.

Former Junior Leaders adviser Alan Laughlin presented the plaque to the group for their suitcase drive held last year. The Association of Township Supervisors offers the award to groups for outstanding community projects.

"Only five awards were given in Pennsylvania," said Laughlin, holding up a plaque. "The Junior Leaders also received $100."

The Junior Leaders presented the Friend of 4-H Award to Doug and Becky Bowersox, McClure. The Bowersox family helped the junior leaders manage the food stand this year during the Mifflin County Youth Fair. They spent one week of their vacation time literally camping out at the fair.

"The Junior Leaders are a fun batch of kids," Becky Bowersox said after she and her husband, Doug, received the Friend of 4-H Award. The annual award goes to anyone who has helped the 4-H program but isn't a leader.

"We were surprised to get the award," said Doug. He and his wife run a food stand for many of Steven's auctioneering sales. They help plan meals for the Decatur Fire Company and for their Maitland Church of the Growing Project Bears Fruit At Boys And Girls Club

NEWARK, Del. — The straw-covered paths between garden rows are dry and dusty, and the plants small for August.

Four kids huddle around the watermelon plant they have adopted as Jay Windsor, extension agent for horticulture at the University of Delaware, (UD) says, "There are no blossoms on this plant. Why not?"

A 10-year-old boy replies, "No water. We need rain."

"Right," Windsor confirms.

Just four weeks ago this exchange could not have taken place, since the 9 to 12-year-olds involved in the Thurman Adams and Ed Ralph Agricultural Education Project knew very little about growing plants. And this is in an area well known for its agriculture — Sussex County, Delaware.

The 80 kids involved in the project, a joint effort between the Boys and Girls Club of Sussex in Georgetown and UD's College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, attend the club's summer enrichment program. The garden is behind the building that houses the youth center.

"In June before we started in the garden, I asked these kids where sweet corn comes from, and they answered, 'a can' or

"the supermarket," said Mark Isaacs, director of the UD Research and Education Center in Georgetown. "But because of what we are doing here, these youngsters will go away at the end of summer with a better appreciation of where their food comes from as well as the time and work involved in growing it."

Isaacs believes in this project, which is named in honor of Adams, a current state senator, and Ralph, a former secretary of agriculture, because of their contribution to agriculture in the First State.

The idea originally was that of John Hollis, a Sussex County farmer who was instrumental in establishing the Boys and Girls Club in Georgetown. He approached Isaacs about handling the agricultural education project, which is in its second year. And Isaacs has plenty of volunteers.

In addition to Windsor, there is Brian Hearn, a college student who helped Isaacs with the growing project last summer, and tilled and planted this garden in May. Another contributor to the success of the project is Extension Master Composer

George Sparrow.

"Plants have to go in before the kids are out of school, so we start the garden," said Isaacs.

The project, which began in mid-June, ended the third week in August, with lessons presented once a week. The first part of each lesson took place in the classroom and lasted 15 to 20 minutes. First Isaacs took the kids through a review of the last week's information; then he introduced a new topic. This lesson was photosynthesis and chlorophyll. The first week was devoted to soil, mulch and compost; the second week, Isaacs discussed water and germination.

The remainder of each class was spent in the garden, where, using a yardstick, the youngsters measured the growth of their plants. A group of four kids adopted one plant each of lima beans, sweet corn, squash and watermelon. Orange stakes beside each plant indicated which group is responsible for which plants.

The kids recorded date and measurements — both height and width — in a notebook. Eventually, they will plot the plants' growth over the nine weeks. Now that the growing part of the project is complete, the youngsters will input their data into a computer at the Boys and Girls Club. This fall, learning about spreadsheets and graphing results will be the second phase of the project.

The adopt-a-plant idea was Windsor's.

"It gives the kids ownership, and they stay interested," he said. "It hasn't been a good growing season, but that's the reality of farming and the kids will learn from this experience, too."

Before they returned to school, the novice gardeners harvested and ate their bounty, which Isaac said the kids "take pride in and get real satisfaction" from eating something they have grown. They also participated in a final bowl-type contest. In this way the 20 teams showed how much they learned.

"It's a great time. The kids have fun competing in the bowl," said Isaacs. "Last year, I was amazed at how much they had retained over the course of the summer."

Next year, said Isaacs, he and his team will start again, teaching a whole new group of youngsters about agriculture.

"It's important that they understand just how their food is grown," he said. "These kids know firsthand because they have done it. They won't soon forget."

Brethren Sunday School class. Becky once served as cook for the Head Start program and continues to work with Head Start as a substitute.

"It was nice being able to work with older kids," Becky said of the Junior Leaders. "It was a learning experience. I want to tell the kids to keep up the good work. It can change their future."

Several 4-H leaders spoke at the banquet. They will be attending the Northeast Regional Leaders Forum in Maine this month. JoAnn Lindsey, Elsie Shaffer, and Elaine Wagner spoke of their previous trips and encouraged leaders to attend leaders conferences.

"I thought all 4-H clubs were like our clubs," Wagner said. "But so many counties handle things differently. There are counties that have tumbling clubs and clover bud clubs. I encourage all of you to go to the leaders forums."

Members of the 4-H Junior Leaders planned the banquet, which was free to leaders and presented certificates and pins to leaders for their years of service. Receiving pins were Rosalie Baumgardner and John Shaffer (one year), Beth Rearick (five years), Darv Yoder (10 years), Tim and Vale Fisher (15 years), and Helen Krick (30 years)

Can I Leave Fallen Leaves On The Ground Or Should I Dispose of Them?

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Autumn is the time for fallen leaf removal and disposal — a task dreaded by many. When fallen leaves are left on the ground, they may accumulate enough to smother turf, ivy, or other ground covers.

Some leaves, such as locust and maple, dry and decompose more quickly. Others, such as poplar, sycamore and oak, decay very slowly and must be removed immediately before they have time to suffocate your lawn or plants. Perennial plants and turf use the fall season as a time of renewal. A heavy blanket of fallen leaves could prevent this process.

There are many methods to remove fallen leaves — raking is probably the most common. It is an effective removal method, and also benefits turf by removing layers of thatch that hinder new growth in spring. Leaf sweepers, blowers, and vacuums can be used to remove fallen leaves in garden beds and areas with ground covers.

After you've removed the leaves, you could bag them and set them on the curb for the garbage truck, or take the advice of an Ohio State University Extension agent. Pete Lane, agriculture and natural resources extension agent in Montgomery County, recommends you turn your leaf "trash" into treasure.

Instead of throwing leaves away, recycle them and use them to benefit your gardens and lawn. Composting is a great solution for fallen leaves. Shredders and chippers can condense the bulk of collected leaves, making them easier to handle and move. Shredding also speeds up the decomposition process by giving microbes more surface area on which to feed.

By reusing leaves, homeowners can reduce disposal fees, and the cost of lawn bags. The nutrients and organic matter contained in composted leaves are assets to the soil fertility when tilled into vacant fall garden plots. Shredded leaves can also be used as a mulch around trees, shrubs or in garden beds.

You could rake your leaves, bag them and ship them off to the garbage dump — or you can use low-cost, environmentally friendly methods like composting to improve your lawn and garden.

For more information on composting to improve your lawn and garden.

For more information on composting, consult OSU Extension fact sheet CDFS-110, "Composting." It is available at extension offices throughout Ohio and on the Internet (<http://ohioline.ag.ohio-state.edu/cd-fact/0110.html>).

Adam Rabenold of Allentown, a member of the Lehigh County 4-H Beef Club, won grand champion market steer at the roundup. With Adam is Keith Bryan, livestock judge for the event.

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Neither the wind nor rain from Hurricane Floyd could dampen the enthusiasm of Lehigh County 4-H Livestock Clubs.

Their annual roundup was conducted at the Schnecksville Fairgrounds Sept. 17-18.

Keith Bryan was on hand to judge the livestock. He also took time to talk with the 4-H members giving them comments and advice.

Auctioneer George Frey presided over the sale and maintained a brisk pace as the livestock was moved through the sale arena. The Lehigh County 4-H Livestock Clubs would like to thank Leidy's Meats for providing the buy-back prices for the hogs, and Leesport Livestock Auction for providing the buy-back prices for the steers and lambs.

The lists of the top winners for the roundup are as follows:

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

The leaves are changing color in the woods surrounding our house. But I barely have time to notice even the red leaves on the maple in our front yard.

So much of my time has been spent in the kitchen. Last Saturday I baked four cakes — one for a pot luck supper, one for a cake auction, one for a neighbor, and one for ourselves. And they could not be ordinary cakes but rather had to include apples and black walnuts while the other was a shoo-fly cake with different kinds of molasses. Both are very moist cakes and have received compliments

Then I also have been cooking extra at mealtimes. Three meals were served to six people instead of the usual two of us. They were all good eaters and licked the platters clean. It is good that I like to cook.

Most of my flower plants have been potted and brought into the house. I intended to let them on the back porch for a while but our cats changed my mind. One morning when I looked at them, they had been upset and some leaves ripped to shreds. So they were put on windowsills in the house.

When I pick the pole lima beans off the garden fence, the 4- and 5-year-old grandchildren help me. It is surprising to me that they learn so quickly how to pick them. It is so easy to pick them too young as the pods are so large. They can carry little buckets and empty them into a large bucket for me. And when we gather the tomatoes, they often see some that I miss.

We have 14 grandchildren but the three on the farm are the only ones that we have been privileged to see grow up. It makes you realize the passing of time as they go off to school.

Introducing The Chi Machine

The Sun Harmony Aerobic Exerciser

It does the work - You get the aerobic benefits.

A totally unique device which promotes the body's own natural absorption of oxygen.

Does your body get the oxygen it needs?

(Adapted from a quiz by Dr. Eigi Noguchi)

Check all the boxes which apply to you -

- ☐ I wake up tired, even after eight hours of sleep
- ☐ I sleep restlessly, waking up frequently
- ☐ I suffer from chronic fatigue
- ☐ I have poor physical endurance
- ☐ I tend to be moody and irritable
- ☐ I am susceptible to colds and flu
- ☐ I suffer from allergies
- ☐ I frequently feel tense and on edge
- ☐ I am frequently constipated
- ☐ I have frequent pain in my shoulder and/or back
- ☐ I have weight problems
- ☐ I crave sweets, alcohol or soda

If you checked more than three boxes, your body might not be assimilating sufficient oxygen. Please consult your physician. You may wish to have your blood oxygen levels tested - before and after you begin to use the Chi Machine.

HTE USA, INC.

"My research has convinced me that lack of oxygen is the root of most or perhaps even all disease."
- Dr. Shizuo Inoue

"In only three weeks of using the Chi Machine, I lost 15 pounds effortlessly - and hospital lab tests showed that my blood cholesterol level dropped from 225 to 160 mg."

How do I use my Chi Machine?

* Place the machine on a rug. Lie on your back and put your ankles in the grooves of the footrest on top of the machine.

* Set the timer switch to activate the machine for the number of minutes you desire. First time users should start with 2-5 minutes.

* The footrest will begin to move back and forth, carrying your feet briskly from side to side. This movement will carry up through your legs and torso, throughout your entire body, causing you to wiggle back and forth - that's right - like a fish swimming in water.

* All you do now is relax and breathe deeply, letting the machine rock you gently but firmly for a maximum of 15 minutes.

* When the time is up and the machine stops, remain lying down for another two to five minutes, relaxing and breathing deeply, enjoying the remarkable afterglow - chi - as it moves throughout your body.

"In two months of using the Chi Machine, my thighs, hips, stomach and buttocks now look as good as they did when I was in my 20's - and I'm almost 52."

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

Personal Property @ 9:00 AM

Real Estate @ 12:00 Noon

Location: Sheep Hill Road, Schaefferstown.

Heidelberg Township, Lebanon County, PA.

Directions: From Rt. 501 at light in Schaefferstown Go East 1 block and turn right to Sheep Hill Rd. Property is next to Community Park.

Property consists of a tract of land on 2 deeds but will be sold as (1) one tract of 10.91 acres m/l. This tract has a restored 2-1/2 story frame home with some aluminum siding, enclosed balcony, basement office which is ground level. There is a total of 2860 sq. ft. with 1-1/2 bath. 2 good sized bedrooms and a large Master bedroom. The modern Oak kitchen by: Rutt/Martin is very adequate with a breakfast or dining area. The appliances remain, including dishwasher, range with microwave oven. There is a food pantry and butcher block work area. The home features Random width pine floors, large Colonial Family Room with walk-in fireplace w/kettle crane, Plastered walls, some open beamed ceilings. Laundry/2nd kitchen for canning and or extra work area on the 1st floor. This property features an old bank barn with attached Blacksmith shop, Tack room and a nice sized 2 box stall horse barn with hay loft. The drive is Cobblestone from Lancaster City Streets. There is a kidney shaped in ground pool and pump & filter system building. This property has loads more than is described here, so come take a look.

This property features many Historical pluses. There is a foundation from the old Ice House plus the OLD LOG HOUSE which is boarded up but could be restored for Historical value and interests. Repair the dam breast and have a beautiful pond.

This property has in-home business potential, handyman work shops, antique shop (if zoning permits) plus anything you may dream of that's permissible.

The BUSH HOG Built ZERO TURN MOWERS.

We are proud to introduce a complete new line of Bush Hog built Zero Turn Mowers. With power units ranging from 18, 22 and 25 H.P. Kohler engines to a 22 HP water cooled Kawasaki engine. Couple these power units with a 48, 54 or 60-inch mowing deck, and there is sure to be a combination right for you. With a new, more comfortable, adjustable seat, footrest and exclusive torsion bar deck lift assist, this mower is built for operator comfort as well as pure cutting ability. The innovative Dual path Hydrostatic drive ensures ease of steering and years of trouble-free mowing.

From the factory where "Legends Are Built," we invite you to take a good look at the complete line of Bush Hog built Zero Turn Mowers at your local authorized Bush Hog dealer.

BUSH HOG

BACKHOES DESIGNED FOR PERFORMANCE AND COMFORT

Bush Hog Series 62 Backhoes feature a larger operator platform with a walk through design. The control console is only 7-1/2 inches at the operator's knee.

Boom and dipperstick are heavy duty, with reinforcing plates at all high stress points for long life. These backhoes are available in digging depths of 7, 8 and 9-feet. All new hydraulic control valves provide smoother operation with 40% less lever effort. Valves located under the platform to reduce heat and noise on the operator.

BUSH HOG

WHY BUSH HOG SQUEALERS MOW DOWN THE COMPETITION.

There are two basic reasons and quality is the first. Each Squealer model is equipped with a tough Bush Hog gearbox that carries a 2-year limited warranty. All models except the 42-inch wide cutter feature oval blade pans as standard equipment, and the 5 and 6-foot wide models have an "in line" shear bolt driveline protection that can be replaced in a snap. An optional slip clutch is available. A new formed deck design increases strength and eye appeal.

The second reason for the Squealer's popularity is price. Select any of the six models, 42 to 84-inches wide, and compare prices with the competition. With a true price and quality comparison, it's easy to see why Squealers mow down the competition.

BUSH HOG

YOUR BEST CHOICE FOR ALL MEDIUM DUTY CUTTING JOBS.

Bush Hog's 280 Series Rotary Cutters are proven winners for cutting pastures, and all general purpose cutting jobs. These rugged mowers feature a one-piece formed deck construction and a cutting capacity of 2-inch diameter. A round blade holder and slip clutch are standard equipment. Free-swinging, uplift steel blades with high tip speed assure a clean cut, and rugged construction throughout means added durability. The Bush Hog 280 cutters are available in 5, 6 or 7-foot cutting widths.

BUSH HOG

A LEGEND IN THE INDUSTRY... THE BUSH HOG 2615L ROTARY CUTTER

Bush Hog's 2615 Legend Flex-Wing Rotary Cutter is the clear choice for maintaining pastures and rights-of-way on even and uneven terrain. With a big 15-foot cutting width and wings that flex from 90° up to 22° down, this rugged cutter gives you fast, on-the-go control of all mowing functions. Cutting height is from 2 to 14 inches and cutting capacity is recommended for material up to 2 inches in diameter.

BUSH HOG

3 CUTTERS FOR ALMOST ANY JOB.

The Bush Hog 3200 Series Rotary Cutters are your best choice for the widest range of mowing requirements. These rugged cutters are provided in 9, 10-1/2 and 14-foot widths and with a selection of lift, pull or semi-mount hitch. 9 and 10-1/2 foot offset models are also available. So whether you have maintenance pastures, rights-of-way, orchards or crop residue, there's a Bush Hog 3200 Series Rotary Cutter just right for your mowing job.

Compact Utility Tractor Keeps Profit In The Pocket

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — In the market for a new tractor? The thought of searching dealers lots, test rides, and a sack full of company brochures can send buyers reaching for the antacid.

After all, a tractor is often the single largest machinery expenditure for a farm, especially for smaller acreage farmers. Coupled with today's tumultuous agricultural economy, it's easy to see why many producers agonize over this decision.

For instance, take horsepower needs. To stay within a set budget, many producers buy used tractors because they often can get more horsepower for the dollar. But buying used can bring up its own set of concerns. How often did the previous owner change the oil? When was the last service date? And buying used may also mean limited option choices.

Dwayne Dearing was facing just such a situation. He wanted a dependable tractor that was large enough to handle a variety of jobs on the farm and be easy on the budget. It was a long wish list for one machine, but Dearing was determined to find something that met all his needs.

"When I get on a tractor, it has to be ready to go," Dearing says. An automobile salesman by day, Dearing performs most of the chores in the evenings and on weekends on his three acres of tobacco and 50 acres of hay he custom farms. Chasing daylight can be a tiresome task, so he doesn't want to be in the shop when there's tractor work to be done. "That's important - a tractor that can do the job when I want it to," Dearing said.

Dearing is like many part-time farmers near Sneedville, Tenn. A full-time job keeps him busy, yet tobacco and hay require a lot of attention. Often, he's working on the farm well after dark. Throughout the year, Dearing's tractor will plow, plant tobacco, cut hay, bale hay, grade horse arenas, mow fence rows, and pull wagons.

Dearing wanted a tractor under 40 horsepower that wouldn't break the bank. "I can't afford to spend all I make on the farm for a tractor," Dearing said. "I want a tractor that will do the jobs I need it to do and be a good value."

Dearing narrowed the field for a reliable, versatile and cost-efficient tractor, and chose the Eicher 364 N.C.

Eicher tractors are manufactured in India and imported to the United States by Balco L.L.C. Eicher produces more than 30,000 tractors per year. Balco has contracted with an existing distributor to market the Eicher tractors throughout the U.S. and provide parts and service support.

"The Eicher tractor does every job well," Dearing said. He especially likes the way the tractor performs under load.

Dwayne Dearing of Sneedville, Tenn., spent weeks looking for a tractor that would handle all the jobs on his farm and not strain his wallet. Dearing says he found the perfect tractor in the Eicher 364 N.C.

"When I set the PTO speed for baling hay, it stays set," Dearing said. "There's no bogging down of the engine."

The 34.5-horsepower, air-cooled diesel engine, rated at 2,150 RPM, gives Dearing the power he needs. The dual-stage clutch PTO with a rating of 31.5 horsepower provides a consistent 540 RPMs.

Rodney Greene, salesman at David Greene Trailer Sales in Sneedville, said the Eicher tractor has been a "perfect fit" for area farmers. "Most farmers in this area need a smaller horsepower tractor that can do a variety of jobs around the farm. The Eicher tractor has exceeded our, and our customers' expectations."

The Eicher 364 N.C. comes standard with a dual-stage clutch that provides live PTO; power steering; a fuel-efficient, air-cooled diesel engine; differential locks; a Category I 3-point hitch with draft and position control; lift capacity of 2,213 pounds; and disc brakes.

Standard safety features include ROPs, safety belts, a PTO shield, safety start switch, and starter motor shield.

KENTLAND, Ind. — After being one of the first to explore the concept of marketing through the consumer-type superstores, Unity Seeds is believed to be one of the first family-owned companies in America to market its hybrids via the Internet.

Unity now sells its corn through other retail outlets as well.

"With commodity prices the way they are today, farmers are really excited to be able to purchase our hybrid seed corn at $51 per 80,000-kernel unit. With high quality genetics from the major foundations, we are able to offer varieties that yield as well or better than higher priced hybrids," said Cathy Simons-Standish, one of the owners of the family-operated business that produces and markets the seed. "Sam's Clubs came to mind because that is where we buy a lot of our farm supplies."

After selling their seed corn

Hybrid Seed Corn Now Even More Easy To Access

direct to farmers via telephone and direct mail for 10 years, Unity is now marketing their seed corn on the Internet through companies such as XSchem and XSag.

"Of course we are also increasing our farmer distribution sites throughout the country. We truly believe that making our products easily accessible to today's producers is a win-win situation. Farmers are able to buy a high quality product at a great value and we are able to keep our family farming operation in business as well."

Steve Anderson of Marseilles, Ill. has been a Unity customer for seven years. "I have used Unity in all types of growing conditions. It has always provided excellent results on the bottom line. It has the standability, ear retention, and dry-down that help me to maximize net income. My yields keep trending up."

Another satisfied customer, Anthony Buell from Wallace, Kan. comments that "it's great to pay half the price and get better production, especially with the way things are today." Buell, who drives to a farmer distribution site to pick up his corn, has been buying his seed from Unity for several years now, too.

Altogether, 12 Unity hybrids are available ranging from 85 to 116-117 days' maturity. Unity uses the most current advances in genetic technology, breeding, and selection to provide a high caliber hybrid seed that results in high yields, excellent test weights, standability, and dry-down.

By incorporating top-of-the-line genetics with high efficiency production methods, Unity produces a value-enhanced grain for today's progressive farmer.

By keeping overhead low and not offering discounts or promotional items to "special" customers, Unity is able to market its hybrids for $51 per 80,000 kernel unit to everyone.

"We believe that all farmers are special people," said Simons-Standish. Access the Website at www.unityseeds.com.

Studies Indicate Tire More Durable, Provides Better Traction

AKRON, Ohio — Goodyear punished its Ultra Torque radial farm tire by running it through progressively worse Iowa clay and mud as well as driving it continuously under tortuously overloaded conditions for hundreds of hours. In the end, it came out on top of its competitors in terms of mud traction and overall durability.

"When we unveiled the Ultra Torque last year, we knew we had a durable radial tractor drive tire with exceptional capabilities in the mud. However, these tests help us evaluate its advantages over other Goodyear and competing brand tires," said Jim Bamer, product manager for Goodyear's Farm and Terra Tires.

During the mud test, the Ultra Torque was compared to drive tires from two leading competitors and Goodyear's Dyna Torque Radial, which was used as the baseline tire. The UltraTorque performed up to 20 percent better than the Dyna Torque Radial. It also performed up to 25 percent better than one of the competing brand tires and had up to 10 percent more drawbar pull than the best of the competing brands.

Case Introduces Sprayer

BENSON, Minn. — Case Corporation has introduced the Case IH SPX 3200B sprayer, designed to lead the chemical application industry in productivity and field accessibility.

"By coupling more horsepower with a high strength frame, the Case IH SPX 3200B sprayer sets new standards for power and operator comfort in Class III sprayers. And with special design features engineered to minimize field compaction, this sprayer is ideal for custom applicators and farmers with medium-to-large-size operations," said Steve Willey, product manager for sprayers.

The Case IH SPX 3200B sprayer is powered by a Case 5.9-liter, 359-cubic-inch engine rated at 200 horsepower. This engine provides all the power, performance, fuel economy, torque rise, and power growth that today's customers demand.

"The SPX 3200B is a unique combination of horsepower, torque, and weight that brings to the market a machine with some 'snort,'" Willey said.

The Case IH SPX 3200 features an industry-leading turbocharged and aftercooled 5.9-liter engine equipped with a mechanical governor that will match the field duty cycle for hidden value in engine life, reliability, and durability. The SPX 3200B has a 200-horsepower engine with 600 foot-pounds of peak torque and a dry GVW under 19,100 pounds, with 14.9R48 tires and a 90-foot boom.

Sire Power Offers Scholarships

TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) — The Sire Power board of directors has announced continuation of Sire Power's scholarship program. The program's goal is to help deserving youth, living in the membership area, continue their college education.

A total of twelve $500 scholarships will be awarded at the Sire Power annual meeting Wednesday, Jan. 19, at the Holiday Inn, Grantville.

In addition to the $500 scholarships, a $2,000 Lew Campbell Memorial Scholarship will be awarded. This scholarship is presented to one outstanding student in memory of former Sire Power General Manager Lew Campbell.

For eligibility requirements and an application, contact Sire Power at (570) 836-3168.

Dairy Farmers Of America Join In Filing Lawsuit In Vermont

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) has joined other marketing organizations that represent dairy farm families in Vermont, New York, and Pennsylvania in filing a lawsuit to stop the implementation of Federal Order Reform.

DFA dairy producers named as plaintiffs in the lawsuit include: Lewis Gardner, Pennsylvania; Laurence Allen, Vermont; and Edwin Schoen, New York.

The lawsuit, which was filed in Federal District Court in Vermont, asks for a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction. The goal of the lawsuit is to prevent the final rule's negative impact in Class I and dairy farmer prices.

"We continue to hope that Congress will legislate changes to the Final Rule that remove the most negative aspects of the decision," said DFA Board Chairman Herman Brubaker. Legislation now before Congress would substitute Option 1-A for Option 1-B, which was put forth by Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman.

"We are urging Congress to move forward in mandating Option 1-A, reducing the cheese making allowance and increasing Class III prices," he said. "We also seek to extend the dairy price support program another year, and we are pushing for the continuation and expansion of the Northeast Compact, as well as authorization of a Southeast Compact."

Noting the importance to Northeast dairy producers of the Option 1-A issue, DFA's Northeast Area Council Chairman Lewis Gardner said blend prices would be as much as $.50 lower if the Final Decision is implemented without changes. DFA is joining plaintiffs Dairyland Inc., Agrimark, St. Albans and Upstate dairy cooperatives in the lawsuit.

New Case IH Grain Drills In Stock For Quick Delivery! The Goal: Uniform Seed Distribution

If you want precision seeding, you need a new Case IH 5300 Series Grain Drill from Binkley & Hurst Bros. No matter if you plant small grain or soybeans!

The Game Plan: Case IH 5300 Grain Drill
Designed for precision planting in solid or extra-narrow row patterns to maximize yields.

- Exclusive diagonal-tipped fluted-roll seed cups ensure uniform seed distribution.
- Close-coupled maneuverability
- Large-capacity seed hopper to cover extra acres between refills.

A Special Feature For All
Case IH Grain Drills

Fluted Roll Feed Cup
Assemblies Save
Seed and Save Time
A known fact that Case IH die-cast zinc alloy feed cups are superior to other competitive brands.
Long life comes from oil-impregnated, molded, sintered metal liners act as a positive bearing surface to surround and support the fluted roll

Fluted roll is precisionmolded and won't freeze up during the idle periods

Shut-off block is molded of steel and delivers consistent cup to cup seeding accuracy.
Exclusive tapered metered edge at the bottom of the feed cup provides unexcelled seeding accuracy, even seed flow, and more uniform spacing

For replacement parts for your existing drill, buy Case IH quality from our Parts Dept. Now! Precision engineered to fit your grain drill exactly!

And you get more than a precision grain drill. You can count on us for genuine, value-priced parts, professional and reliable service support, and flexible financing. CASE III FINANCING SUPPORT

Long hood for less wind turbulence for cleaner cutting in thin crop stands.

A Gehl disc mower conditioner delivers exceptional cutting and conditioning, even in your most difficult crops and conditions.

Rugged high-speed cutting discs, spinning at 3,000 rpm, easily slice through down and tangled crops or dense wet undergrowth to deliver a clean cut.

The cut crop is delivered to Gehl's specially designed intermeshing rubber conditioning rolls for thorough, yet gentle crop conditioning. They'll condition your crop for fast drying.

ONLY FROM GEHL
The gear driven cutterbar (outlined in white) is protected. Gehl shields the cutterbar from rocks or other field obstructions with full-width skid shoes.

Easily replaceable disc drive assemblies. Drive stations can be removed individually for quick servicing. Bearings are sealed in grease. The patented Protectadrive™ system protects the cutterbar gear train from damage in the event of disc contact with major field obstacles.

Gehl: Your Best Choice! This Is A Good Time To Order A Kernel Crushing Forage Harvester From Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc.

We are introducing and now taking orders for the new medium size Gehl 1075 Forage Harvester with high speed crop processing roller mill that can be opened up for haylage without removal of unit.

The new medium sized Gehl Model CB 1075 is here with a easy-in, easy-out kernel processor. Lots of good features to make chopping enjoyable with the end result you are looking for - higher quality, more digestible feed.

Benefits of processing

The benefits of processed corn silage can easily outweigh the investment. Reports from dairy farmers who have already used a prototype model report increased milk production of two to four pounds per cow per day. These results are confirmed by a recent Washington State University study that shows average responses of two to three pounds.

GEHL America's #1 Forage Box

The Gehl tradition of building the premier forage box is well known. Gehl forage boxes feature a simple design with few moving parts for increased reliability. They do an outstanding job in a wide variety of conditions. They last long and maintain high resale value.

Gehl's newest forage box continues the tradition with added features including true, infinitely variable-speed drive, improved box roof, improved beater design, an optional 18-inch folding conveyor extension; and improved durability throughout.

This box is loaded with the convenience and performance features you demand for smooth, fast unloading and worry-free reliability.

Compare the performance, compare the convenience, compare the quality and compare the reliability. You'll see that Gehl delivers the best value for your forage box dollar.

NOTE! Gehl Unloading Conveyor Webs Are Stronger Than Some Competitive Brands Which Means Less Down Time In The Field!

A Heavy Duty
KNIGHT For You!

One day in 1949, a friend told Stan Knight, "I wish someone would make a spreader that would not break down with frozen manure." That challenge to the founder of Knight Manufacturing led to the Knight heavy duty manure spreaders that were soon on the market. The common focus of Knight spreaders to this day is that they are simple and rugged and designed to give many years of service.

Wet & matted hay & stoney fields?? VICON cuts less than an inch from ground & floats over stones, making hay mowing a breeze!

DISC MOWER CONDITIONERS

Free Float Suspension System

The overhead frame design with the mower suspended by links and coil springs allows cutting close to the ground. The mower floats over uneven ground contours without damaging the stubble or unsettling the machine. When encountering uneven field conditions, the mower unit lifts and swings back at the same time, reducing impact on the mowerbar.

2 yr. Warranty on Cutter Bar

CUTTING CLOSE TO THE GROUND WITH THE VICON'S FREE FLAT SUSPENSION SYSTEM

Vicon finger or roller type trailed mower conditioners combine a superb cut with an excellent conditioning performance. The full swivel hitch allows mowing and conditioning non-stop around the tightest corners and free float suspension system guarantees perfectly matched high capacity

GEHL

"Vortex™" Blowers

If you need a high-capacity forage blower to fill your tallest silos, Gehl Vortex blowers will help get your silo-filling done in short order.

- Three models - Your choice of 540 or 1,000 rpm operation.
- Twin spinners - Rifle material into the blower fan at nearly 35 mph.
- Twin-sided fan disc - Paddles on both sides shoot the crop up the pipe in nearly continuous flow.
- Split rim sheets - Feature a replaceable inner liner for longer life and lower maintenance costs.
- Many convenience features - Swing-away blower outlet, air vents, adjustable left tire, right tire guard, wide hopper, removable tunnel covers and duals water inlets.

YOUR BEST FORAGE BOX VALUE

Gehl's new BU980 Self-unloading forage box has been redesigned for improved performance and durability. Features include:

- True variable-speed drive for infinite unloading speeds.
- Single lever control.
- Improved beater design.
- Stronger drive chain and reinforced roof.
- Standard highway light package.
- Optional folding 18-inch conveyor extension.

Logging with Le Winch!

Le Winch is built specifically for those interested in protecting the forest by harvesting their own trees. Excellent for the part-time logger as well, Le Winch is a cost effective alternative to expensive skidders.

Skid logs 10 times faster!

- Ideal for 3 pt. hitch to 20-50 h.p. tractors w/ pto.
- Heavy duty pulley w/ overload clutch.
- Dozer blade provides maximum stability.

WHAT YOU SET
IS WHAT YOU GET*MF 8780 ROTARY COMBINE WITH CONSTANT-SPEED ROTOR

Now you can maintain your optimum rotor speed for maximum productivity, even as crop load varies, with the unique constant-speed rotor control.

The MF 8780 Rotary combine is also simply reliable and efficient. Fewer moving parts, belts and chains mean fewer problems during critical harvest periods. That also means an efficient and gentle combine for great sample quality.

See our revolutionary MF 8780 Rotary combine with its deluxe centered cab, unique direct-discharge rotor and patented feeder beater.

GET PRECISE APPLICATION CONTROL

New Holland side-delivery spreaders provide the most material control. Whether you're light top dressing, laying down a heavy layer, or anything in between, the Model 3106 puts the right amount of material right where you need it.

- Handles a wide variety of material – slurry gutter material, cow manure, even poultry litter
 - 1375 gallon capacity with side rails in place.
 - V-tank design delivers material to the auger fast
 - Heavy-duty round-core auger produces less drag
 - Double-acting hydraulic cylinder moves auger up and down to keep material flowing
 - Hydraulic gate and specially designed expeller give precise application control
 - Backed by a 10-year warranty against tank rust-through
- See us for all your spreader needs.

We Have Used Parts To Fit JD 2-Cyl. and 10 & 20 Series Tractors

A new standard from the 3-cylinder leaders

New Holland has raised the standards for 42 to 62 PTO hp tractors with the introduction of TND and TNS models.

The higher standards include:

- Proven engines: up to 36% torque rise
- Exclusive SuperSteer™; 76 degree turning
- Exclusive Traction Management System
- Iso-mounted, fully enclosed cab with standard A/C, heater, tilt/telescope steering, front/rear washers/wipers, best electronic dash, best visibility, and more
- Clutchless power shuttle fingertip control
- State-of-the-art 16x16 Synchro Command™ transmission with 4 speeds under 1 mph

Let us show you these exciting new tractors.

Building on a good thing

You might recognize the engines, drivelines and axles on the new New Holland TS tractors. They have excellent reputations based on past performance. Thousands of customers have put these components to hard use and benefited from their performance and durability.

So, New Holland wasn't about to change a good thing. They made other improvements to these 70- to 90-PTO-hp tractors instead – like increasing the horsepower, improving the comfort of the cab, relocating the fuel tank for added convenience, adding a top road speed of 25 mph, upgrading the electrical system and adding outlets and modernizing the styling.

Better see these exciting 70- to 90-PTO-hp TS tractors for yourself. And find out how good design can become even better.

Any job. Any time. Anywhere.

Hard work demands productive, dependable equipment, like the New Holland Super Boom™ skid-steer loader. Super Boom has unbeatable stability and visibility, faster travel speeds, superior dump height and reach, greater bucket and lift capacity and more attachments than anyone.

Stop in today and see what Super Boom can do for you.

Food Animal Husbandry Conference Nov. 5

PHILADELPHIA — An all-day conference about the topic Food Animal Husbandry And The New Millennium: Ethical, Environmental, and Societal Impacts is scheduled Friday, Nov. 5, in the auditorium of The Wistar Institute on the University of Pennsylvania campus.

Admittance is free, but pre-registration is required.

The conference, organized by the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine's Center for the Interaction of Animals & Society (CIAS) and Center for Animal Health & Productivity (CAHP), is the sixth in a series of interdisciplinary conferences on human relations with animals and the natural world.

Presentations will include:

• "Contentious Issues in Animal Production: The Broader Context of Environmental and Social Concerns," Paul B. Thompson, Ph.D., director, Center for Food Animal Productivity and Well-Being, and Joyce and Edward E. Brewer, distinguished professor, Dept. of Philosophy, Purdue University.

• "Animal Welfare Issues in the Dairy and Swine Industries," Jeffrey Rushen, Ph.D., Dairy and Swine Research and Development Centre, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada, Quebec, Canada.

• "Animal Welfare Issues in the Poultry Industry: Is There a Lesson to be Learned?" Ian J.H. Duncan, Ph. D., professor of ethology, and chair in animal welfare, University of Guelph, Ontario, Canada.

• "The Culture and Agriculture of Animal

Production," David Fraser Ph.D., professor of animal welfare, faculty of Agricultural Sciences of Applied Ethics, University of British Columbia, Canada.

The conference is sponsored by a grant from the Provost's Interdisciplinary Seminar Fund of the University of Pennsylvania. Conference registration is free but all attendees must preregister by sending name and address/affiliation to Damir Akhoundov at <damir@vet.upenn.edu> or phone 215-898-2239. For more details of the conference as they become available, visit the CIAS conferences webpage at <http://www.vet.upenn.edu/cias>. The Wistar Institute is located at 36th and Spruce streets, Philadelphia.

'Passing On The Farm'

Workshop In Towanda, Nov. 3

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Who will be the next generation of farmers? Pennsylvania agriculture has twice as many farm operators over the age of 70 as under the age of 35. Potential replacement farmers, under age 35, make up only eight percent of our total number of farm operators, according to the 1997 Census.

To help farmers, and potential farmers plan for the succession of their farm business to the next generation, Pennsylvania Farm Link is sponsoring six workshops that will provide information for farmers on the decision-making process needed for a successful farm transfer. It is never too early to begin this process.

The first "Passing on the Farm" workshop will be Nov. 3 at the Bradford County Extension Office in Towanda from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Information on business planning, loan resources, legal issues in a transfer, start-up strategies, how to bring the next generation into the farm business, record keeping and estate planning will be presented. Participating agencies and individuals include Pennsylvania Farm Link, Penn State Cooperative Extension, Farm Credit, Farm Service Agency, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, estate planners, attorneys, and local farmers.

According to Farm Link Director Marion Bowlan, "17 percent of Pennsylvania's farm operators are age 70 or older. At least one-quarter of our farms will change hands in the next 10 years. How we address this problem will affect agriculture in Pennsylvania for generations to come."

Other "Passing on the Farm" workshops include:

• Nov. 22 at the Mercer County Extension Office in Mercer.

• Dec. 16 at the Lewistown Center in Lewistown.

• Jan. 20 at the Arena Restaurant in Bedford.

• Feb. 10 at Morrisons Cove Memorial Park in Martinsburg.

• March, location to be announced in the southeast region.

Call Farm Link at (717) 664-7077 by Nov. 2 to register for this free workshop or to obtain information on this or other programs. Lunch is on your own.

EarthForce - Dig Different.
Compact Backhoe Loaders
Ultimate Digging Machines

Built for the way you work.

These are the most powerful and mobile compact backhoe loaders
available today. The compact body coupled with 4 wheel steering and 4 wheel gear box drive makes Earth Force both a rough terrain specialist and narrow-access champion.

Exceptional loading height and digging depth coupled with a quiet Kubota diesel and large fuel tank means exceptional operating performance.

IN STOCK

EF4 46 HP Kubota Diesel with 11 ft. Backhoe

EFI 25 HP Kohler Gas with 9 Ft. Backhoe

THINK CONCRETE WHEN PLANNING YOUR FEED STORAGE!!

"HOW WILL YOU BE STORING YOUR VALUABLE FORAGES AND GRAINS
IN THE 21ST CENTURY?"

It's not too early to begin planning your storage and feeding systems for the year 2000 and beyond.

As margins narrow, dairymen need to invest in efficiency; this can have as great an influence on PROFIT as milk price changes.

Protect your valuable feeds from the elements... increase the efficiency of your feeds, your animals, and your labor.

ADVANTAGE ... CONCRETE

No used silos, no rebuilt silos, no preowned silos... All New For You...

Everlast Roofing

Everlast II is galvanized heavier like old times, it is heat formed to prevent paint cracks; it is cut while hot to prevent early edge rust; Everlast paint is harder so it won't scratch as easy, won't bend or buckle as easy because of stronger design, laps are tighter and virtually invisible, nails/screws seal better because ribs fit tighter to fastener heads; zinc phosphate is used under paint which is much better than the chromate most competitors use. Crisp and attractive. Sharp colors. Excellent for houses and barns. Double dipped galvanized is proven best for animals. Standing seam is ideal for houses. Low prices, fast delivery.

HOW BIG A COOLER DO I REALLY NEED?

Depends on a lot of things. But one thing's certain Mueller makes the milk cooler that's right for your operation. And it's built to last. So it'll have high resale value the day you need a bigger cooler. For help deciding how big a milk cooler you need,

THIS WEEK'S SPECIAL

WINTER IS COMING

Make sure your animals have plenty of water with the Lapp Energy-Free Drinker.

LAPP ENERGY-FREE DRINKER

Proven to Work
Since 1984

- After marketing for years our customers tell us it's still the best and unique drinker you can buy today
- Units have non-siphoning all plastic 3/4" water valve
- Units have 3/4" PVC shut off-and-on ball valve right behind water valve
- Drinker lid is designed w/no grooves on top that can encourage bacteria-germs that could seep inside unit
- The Poly-Drinkers are high density urethane foam insulated with drain plugs, proven to work outside in our area
- Also available with 2 holes.
- We also carry Badger and Ritchie waterers.

Cut stall clean-out time by 50% with a Millcreek Compact Spreader.
"The spreading efficiency sure outweighs the price. This is a wonderful machine. I couldn't be more pleased."
EARL SINKS - Brock, Texas

Say "Good-Bye" to back-breaking manure handling and cut stall clean-out time in half. Hook an affordable Millcreek Compact Spreader to your 10 hp garden tractor, take it right to the stall for easy loading. No more wheelbarrow.

Millcreek Spreaders last and last
Since spreaders are our specialty, we put more into each one. For example our 20-year guaranteed floor will never rust or rot. Positive chain drive provides excellent spreading action. And tough steel construction holds up to rugged farm use. Seven sizes, for 1-horse barns to 50-horse stables. PTO and ground drive models available.

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

- High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
- Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems

- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef

- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates

- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

B.G. 34

Perennial Ryegrass

Palatable • Profitable • Digestible • Proven

Up to twice the milk yield per acre!

A blend of 3 late maturing Ryegrasses for grazing. On our farm B.G. 34 had the least amount of seed heads. Makes milk, meat and fiber. Very, very palatable and digestible. Dairy men in the Midwest are raving about this one. Up to 10 lb more milk per cow per day. Easy to establish, forms a dense sod. Very winter hardy.

GIVES YOU
OPTIONS IN FEEDING

Your Dairy Herd

Call us today for a feeding program built to fit your Dairy Herd and your Production Goals.

For maximum performance and income over feed cost, rations should be balanced to provide the optimum levels of degradable and undegradable protein, nonstructural and structural (fiber) carbohydrate as well as minerals and vitamins. This allows for maximum utilization of the rumen microbes and total ration efficiency. Because your needs may be different from your neighbor's, we adjust the following nutrients and ingredients to fit your needs and goals.

- Amino Acids
- Protein
- By-Pass Protein
- Energy
- Fiber

- Calcium
- Phosphorus
- Salt
- Vitamins & Trace Minerals
- Organic Trace Minerals

- Multi-Protein Sources
- Added Animal Fat
- Rumen Inert Fats

Source For Quality Snow Plows From Home
Owner To Heavy Duty Truck Mount Plows

DRIVE RIGHT IN!

NOT ALL DETACHABLE PLOWS ARE CREATED EQUAL!

- Drive-in attachments eliminate struggling with a heavy blade and attachments
- Vertical Jack Stand guarantees proper height alignment
- Two permanently mounted connecting pins means there's no chance of dropping them in the snow or losing them during storage
- One Piece detachable (not two) means faster on and off

The Key To Easy Operation Is In Your Hand.

See Binkley & Hurst Bros. Today! Ask For Dean

SNOWPLOW CONTROL

This new state of the art, electronic control can be used with either the Solenoid EHP or the EC/SV Hydraulic System
• "CB" style mounting clip provided
• Unplus for glovebox storage
• Automatic shut-off if not in use and automatic float in "down" position.

THREE PLOWS IN ONE!

Break through deep drifts in the "V" position or carry and stack in the "scoop" mode or use this 8-1/2' plow in the straight or angled position for conventional plowing

All blade functions are right in the palm of your hand with the hand-held FISH-STIK® control. The Minute Mount System® for easy on/off, trip-edge blade and double acting cylinders, all make the EZ-V plow the ultimate plow for the professional plower.
